Tigers Renew Rivalry With Blue Lions Friday

Circleville's Tigers, playing an improved brand of ball in their last two games, are all set to renew an annual rivalry with the Blue Lions of Washington C. H. tomorrow night on the CHS gridiron.

Usually when the two teams meet past records can be disregarded. Year after year both 11's usually point to this battle which normally is the season finale for each squad.

With a doubt Friday night will be no exception. Both teams are reported at near full strength and a battle royal should ensue.

If past seasons are an indication fans for both sides probably will engage in a friendly verbal battle while their favorites struggle on the gridiron.

* * *

THE BLUE Lions will roll into town sporting a record of four wins and four losses. In South Central Ohio League play they downed Hillsboro but were trounced by Greenfield, 14-0.

Circleville owns one win, five losses and one tie. Although they show a poorer record, the Tigers' win and tie have come in their last two games.

The Tigers reached their peak Tuesday night when they fought classy Greenfield to a 13-13 deadlock. The Greenfield gridders, coming here undefeated and untied in league play, were heavy favorites.

The home forces, however, unloaded their best game of the season in what proved to be a moral victory. Coach Bennett and staff hope the Tigers retain the same aggressiveness which prevailed in the Greenfield test.

To date the Blue Lions have been considered an offensive-minded team, relying on the running of halfbacks Bill Herman, Ken Evans and Roger McLean and fullback Gill Crouse. The halfbacks usually hit the ends and Crouse, a freshman, uses power through the middle.

A favorite play for the Blue Lions is a reverse to either side with Herman or Evans carrying. Quarterback Buddy Lynch has done little passing so far this season, relying mostly on a strong ground game.

* * *

CIRCLEVILLE will carry its hopes on the passing of Hosler, the receiving of ends Bill Johnson and Jon Parcher and the running of Walt Arledge, Dick Bircher and Larry Hannahs. Linemen Terry Barthelmas, Asa Elsea, Bill Perkins, Fred Sines and company will be faced with the man-sized task of stopping Washington's ground game.

Here are the probable starting lineups:

Circleville

Ends— Jon Parcher, 198, and Bill Johnson, 170; tackles —Bill Perkins, 204, and Terry Barthelmas, 154; guards— Asa Elsea, 166, and Bob Barnhart, 156; center—Fred Sines, 159; quarterback —Mike Hosler, 175; halfbacks—Walt Arledge, 164, and Dick Bircher, 151; fullback— Larry Hannahs, 165.

Washington

Benson Future Studied Anew

Tuesday's Poll Results Seen Bringing Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Impressive victories by Democrats in Tuesday's elections in Eastern states revived speculation today about the tenure of Ezra Taft Benson as secretary of agriculture.

Benson was not directly involved in these elections, although he has been under sharp attack by critics in his own as well as the Democratic party. But the results, indicating a decline in the popularity of the Eisenhower administration, could well affect Benson's future.

Some farm and political leaders said the White House might well be expected to review its position with regard to all major groups and issue with the idea of weeding out trouble spots.

Demands for removal of Benson have been bobbing up from some Republican lawmakers in recent weeks. These pleas reflect concern over next year's congressional elections and predictions of Democrats that they will pick up several Republican seats in farm areas.

* * *

ACCOMPANIED by Mrs. Benson and two daughters, the secretary is on a trip around the world checking up on farm disposal programs abroad. His trip, which is being made in a military transport plane, has been accompanied by reports that Benson would quit the Cabinet to become an assistant to the President in charge of a broadened surplus disposal program. The secretary has said, however, that when he leaves the Cabinet he will return to Salt Lake City to resume a post as an apostle of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

U.S., Soviet Farm Living Is Compared

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Foreign Agricultural Service chose today's 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution to draw some contrasts between progress under Russian communism and this country's democracy.

"The Soviet Union is making much of this date, and is alleging progress that the facts do not bear out," the agency said in its monthly magazine "Foreign Agriculture."

"Citizens of the Soviet Union learn little of the outside free world and have scant opportunity to compare their lot with that of citizens of non-Communist countries," it added.

The agency, a unit of the Agriculture Department, said that in Russia there has been little improvement in what it called the real wages paid workers.

"The average Soviet worker, after 40 years of Soviet rule, today must work three hours to earn a dozen eggs, 62 hours to earn a pair of leather shoes, and 1,400 hours to earn a wool suit. The true record of the Soviet Union, by way of providing more of the good things of life for its people, is negative."

Ike Aide Quits, Plans Race for Senate Seat

BERNARDSVILLE, N. J. (AP)—Bernard M. Shanley announced today his candidacy for the New Jersey Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate.

The seat to which Shanley aspires is now held by Republican Sen. H. Alexander Smith, who will be 78 in January.

The 54-year-old lawyer, who resigned Wednesday as appointments secretary to President Eisenhower, said the Republican party must win in the 1958 congressional election to back the Eisenhower administration.

Tigers of 1948 Plan Reunion Friday Night

Circleville's High School's first South Central Ohio League championship team, the squad of 1948-49, will hold a reunion during halftime of the Circleville-Washington C. H. game Friday night on the local gridiron.

It will be a memorable occasion for the former champs who nine years ago battled to a 16-13 decision over Washington. The win gave the CHS gridders their first SCOL title and first Tiger undefeated season in many years.

The 1948-49 squad's showing seemed to light a fire for local football. The Tigers went on to win two more league championships and compile a record of 26 straight wins in the ensuing years.

Veteran football fans well-remember that long ago night at Washington when the Tigers hooked up in a do-or-die struggle with a Blue Lion squad which also was unbeaten at the time.

* * *

GIVING their all the local gridders built up a lead early in the game and then fought valiantly to maintain it. Their efforts that night were to remain as an example of courage for years to come.

Without a doubt each gridder of the championship team able to make the reunion Friday night will remember and discuss every play of that crucial game nine years ago.

French Expert Believes One Sputnik Misfired

PARIS (AP)—A Parisian astronomer believes Russia misfired a Sputnik in mid-August.

Paul Couderc of the Paris Observatory told a capacity audience that the Haute Provence Observatory in southeastern France noted a "bizarre object" in the sky the night of Aug. 19 going toward the Mediterranean.

"We now believe it was an abortive attempt at launching a satellite," Couderc said.

Russia Displays Newest Weapons

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union celebrated its 40th anniversary today with a parade through Red Square of new weapons to give its armed forces greater mobility and more rocket power.

In a swift march past leaders of the Communist world, the annual Nov. 7 parade showed new heavy armor including a pair of long distance missiles, one of an estimated 70-foot length.

Foreign observers in the reviewing stands estimated that most of the 38 major rockets shown in various sizes and types were tactical rather than strategic weapons, designed for direct support of ground troops.

In his first public appearance since he replaced Marshal Georgi Zhukov as defense minister, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky made the speech of the day attacking the United States and assuring the Russians could meet any attack.

Standing atop the Lenin-Stalin tomb, where Zhukov had reviewed the last five military parades, Malinovsky asserted:

* * *

"AGGRESSIVE foreign circles, notably in the U.S.A., pursue a policy aimed at increasing international tension, preventing disarmament and threatening mankind with the dangers of atomic war."

The Soviet people, he declared, "ardently desire peace," but "the Soviet armed forces are capable of crushing any aggressor should he attack our country."

Communist leaders from nearly 60 nations were gathered with Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev and other members of the Soviet government on the tomb as Malinovsky opened celebrations of "the great October (Bolshevik) Revolution."

Communists seized power in Russia 40 years ago today, on Oct. 25, 1917, by the old Russian calendar then in use but on Nov. 7 by the revised calendar.

Heavy clouds prevented the usual flypast of new Soviet planes. But in front of the Kremlin, rockets dominated the packed crowd's attention.

There were two sizes of massive rockets possibly intended for strategic long-range use. The length of one was estimated at about 70 feet, the other smaller. They were wheeled by on long tractor-drawn trailers.

Accompanying a series of finned rockets were a pair of massive cannon mounted on tank chassis. Their appearance and their barrels of 12 to 16 inches width indicated dual purpose weapons for conventional rockets and atomic warheads.

A Moscow radio commentator describing the parade said it included a "new type of artillery based on jet propulsion."

New tanks and other types of armor making their first appearance in Red Square were notable for low silhouettes and obviously high speeds.

There were two types of new T54 medium tanks which have replaced the old Soviet T34 and a huge new heavy tank to succeed the Joseph Stalin III.

Drunk Drivers Land in Jail

Nine Drivers Get $530 in Fines

Two motorists arrested by the sheriff's department on accusations of driving under the influence of intoxicants were fined and jailed by Municipal Judge Walter M. Shea yesterday.

Joseph Hickey, 35, 219 W. Mound St., was fined $200 and costs, sentenced to 10 days in jail and had his driver's license suspended subject to compliance with state law. Judge Shea suspended $100 of the fine and seven days of the jail term providing Hickey maintain good behavior for one year.

Kent Miller, 35, Toledo, received a similar penalty on an intoxicated driving count.

Drivers arrested by the State Highway Patrol were:

Donald J. Withrow, 23, Lockbourne Air Force Base; $40 and costs for speeding at 90 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Tenny L. Swank, 61, Route 1, New Holland; $15 and costs for failing to signal for a turn onto the highway.

Fred H. Mouser, 74, Route 1, New Holland; $15 and costs for failure to yield the right of way.

Ernest M. Taylor Jr., 26, Columbus; $10 and costs for speeding at 70 miles per hour.

William B. Weckerly, 23, Lockbourne Air Force Base; $10 and costs for crossing a yellow line.

* * *

MOTORISTS arrested by city police were:

Juanita Heeter, 33, 699 E. Mound St.; $25 and costs for no operator's license.

David A. Yates, 62, 161 W. Mound St.; $15 and costs for speeding at 50 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone.

Injured Texan, 30, Admits Car Theft

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Texan with his hip in a cast has hitchhiked here from Dallas to surrender on an old auto theft charge.

Leonard H. Fancher, 30, waived a hearing Wednesday before U.S. Commissioner G. P. Hunt and was held in $2,000 bond.

Fancher, of Wichita Falls, Tex., is accused of bringing a stolen car from Dallas to Milford.

He said that after returning to Texas from the trip here, he was injured in a truck accident and hospitalized with a pelvis fracture. Fancher said that is when he decided to give himself up.

A series of 52 discussion sessions is planned to help school board members and superintendents work out various problems of school administration.

New 'Western' Line-Up OKd For County

Transfer Petitions Turned Down by Unanimous Action

A new "Western" school district and a revised "Northeast" school district were created last night by the Pickaway County Board of Education.

Three school district transfer petitions were rejected by the board. The rejection resolutions will be sent to the State Board of Education for action.

The board, meeting in the office of superintendent of schools George McDowell, created two new districts which differ from the four-way county split originally planned by the board.

The new "Western" district is comprised of eight separate school districts—Monroe, Darby, Muhlenberg, Jackson, Perry, Deercreek, New Holland and Wayne.

The new "Northeast" district will be made up of Scioto, Harrison, Ashville Local, Madison and Walnut districts.

* * *

TRANSFER PETITIONS of New Holland, Wayne and a portion of the Logan Elm districts were rejected unanimously.

The Logan Elm petition, which asked transfer to the Circleville city school system for a portion of the district adjacent to the city, including Knollwood Village, was refused. The board said:

"We are not in sympathy with the transfer of this territory. We think those people will have a good school system and we think the new district will need the valuation.

"The local (Logan Elm) board has, as part of its minutes, an agreement to assign any student to another district if the student desires. We are sure their tax rate in the new district will never be as high as Circleville's."

The Wayne Twp. petition asked transfer of the entire Wayne district to Circleville. Board members agreed that the reason for the rejection is "The territory is considered essentially rural and a part of the county school district".

New Holland's petition was refused because, the board stated, "The district is an essential part of the Pickaway County School system. To release the territory would disrupt present consolidation plans of the county board of education."

Objection resolutions must be filed by the county board with the State Board of Education within 10 days. The state board then has 90 days in which to act. If the state

Ike, Top Advisers Hold New Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower held a second expanded National Security Council session today. He called in the greatest attendance of outside experts ever brought into one of these top policy-making meetings.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, acting White House press secretary, said there was no direct relationship between the meeting and Eisenhower's address tonight on science and security.

The speech, at 8 p. m. EST, is to be the first of a series of presidential addresses designed to reassure the nation about its scientific progress and security.

The series is on an accelerated schedule with this first one moved up six days ahead of the original plan.

While the specific purpose of the Security Council session was not disclosed, Mrs. Wheaton told reporters that "Yes, I would say it is connected with all developments of the last week or 10 days." That would take in the period of the launching of Sputnik II by Soviet Russia.

ALL TOLD, some 45 persons gathered at the White House for the NSC meeting.

The NSC has five members by law—the President, the vice president, the secretaries of state and defense and the director of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Customarily, other top officials from the White House and executive agencies also are brought in, so that some 25 persons are present.

Added to the list today were the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force and the chiefs of staff of the military services, plus members and advisers to the Science Advisory Committee of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

An enlarged NSC meeting was also held last week.

Although White House officials talked down the idea of any cause and effect connection, the speed-up in the Eisenhower speaking program followed a special Cabinet meeting Wednesday and an announcement by Senate Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas of plans for a "searching inquiry" into the whole missiles and satellite programs.

Tonight's address also was timed, at least to some degree on purpose, to coincide with Russia's observance today of the 40th anniversary of the Red revolution.

* * *

EISENHOWER'S speech will be carried live by all national radio networks and the CBS television network. It will be carried on film by ABC-TV at 10:30 p. m. and by NBC-TV at 11:15.

Eisenhower announced more than a fortnight ago that he intended to strike out around the country and make a series of speeches to bolster national confidence in America's* scientific progress, national defense and his foreign policy.

It was announced that the first address would be made in Oklahoma City Nov. 13. But suddenly the initial speech was rescheduled for Washington tonight. The President still plans to fly to Oklahoma and make one of the series of addresses there.

Ten House Republicans urged Eisenhower Wednesday night to tell the nation exactly where it stands, "regardless of how serious or unpleasant these facts may be."

They said "we cannot overstate the intense feeling expressed to us" by constituents they said are concerned over Russia's achievements in space.

Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass), criticizing "the complacency and the confusion" he said abound in the U. S. programs, also called on Eisenhower to "tell us exactly where we stand today and where we go from here."

U.S. County Officials Group Opens Confab

CINCINNATI (AP) — County officials from various parts of the country met here today to discuss various issues which will be before the next session of Congress.

They met under auspices of the National Assn. of County officials.

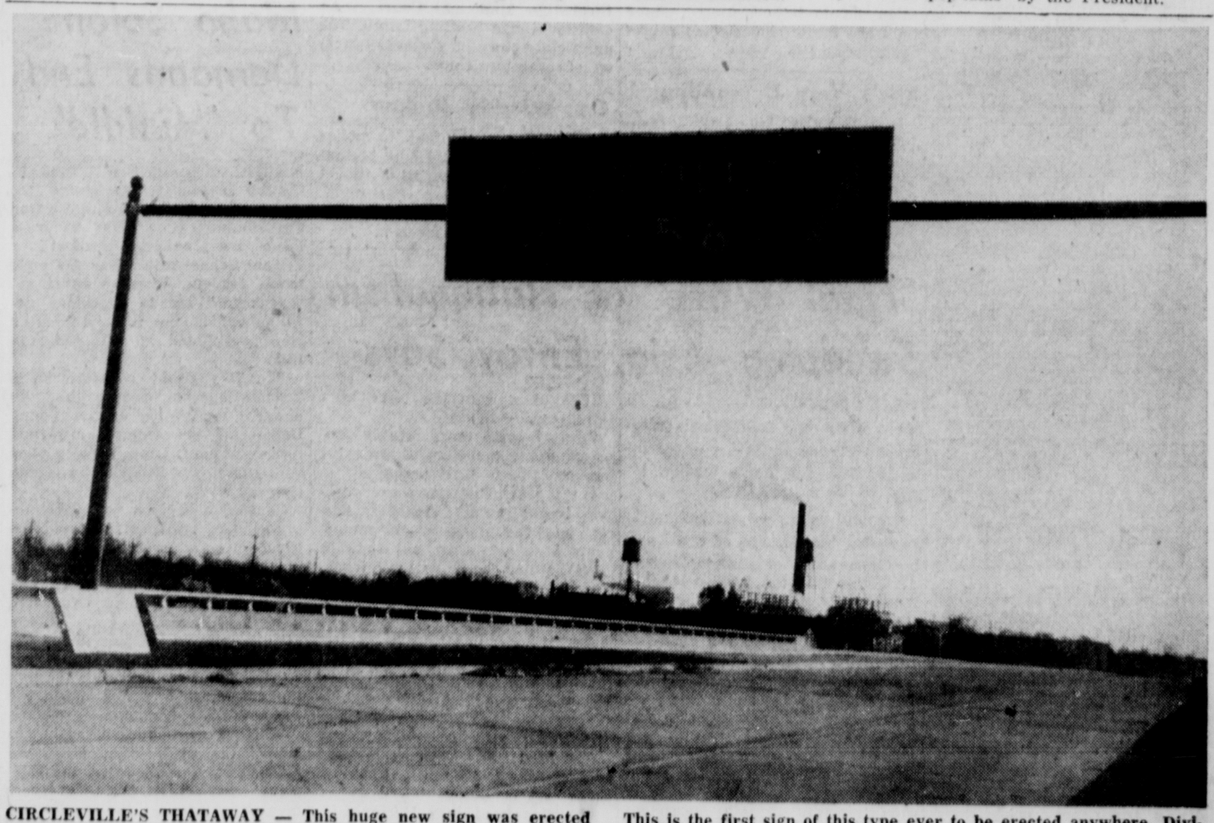

Bernard H. Hillenbrand, Washington, D. C. executive secretary, said civil defense, airports, water pollution, welfare administration, finance and highway matters would be discussed.

Ike Urged to OK Speedup in Rockets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) called on President Eisenhower today to back a speedup of rocket development and the sharing of nuclear weapons with U. S. allies.

Although Humphrey said Congress should be summoned into special session, it was evident Eisenhower intends to wait for a Dec. 3 conference with leaders of both parties to seek any legislative cooperation he may need.

Humphrey, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "much more is needed than a series of generalized 'pep-talks' by the President."

CIRCLEVILLE'S THATAWAY — This huge new sign was erected yesterday by the State Highway Department in response to local protests that the new Route 23 by-pass signs were misleading drivers right past Circleville. The new sign is 6 feet by 19 feet — the largest sign ever erected in Division Six and one of the largest in Ohio. It is all aluminum, with reflector-type paint and washes itself in the rain. This is the first sign of this type ever to be erected anywhere. Division Six officials, under the direction of Frank M. Williams, division deputy director, felt the sign was necessary to guide motorists to Circleville. The sign is located about 150 north of the Route 22 overhead and is for south-bound traffic.

20 Freight Cars Jump Warren Track

LEBANON (AP)—Twenty cars of a 50-car freight train were derailed 1½ miles west of nearby Franklin early today, blocking both the north and south main lines between Cincinnati and Dayton.

A spokesman for the New York Central Railroad blamed the accident on a broken arch bar, a connecting support on one of the cars. Five trainmen escaped injury.

Six of the cars toppled over into the ditch. One was a flatcar carrying containers of liquid chlorine, but none was broken.

The railroad spokesman said no estimate could be made as yet on the length of time the right-of-way would be blocked.

Injured Texan, 30, Admits Car Theft

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Texan with his hip in a cast has hitchhiked here from Dallas to surrender on an old auto theft charge.

Leonard H. Fancher, 30, waived a hearing Wednesday before U.S. Commissioner G. P. Hunt and was held in $2,000 bond.

Fancher, of Wichita Falls, Tex., is accused of bringing a stolen car from Dallas to Milford.

He said that after returning to Texas from the trip here, he was injured in a truck accident and hospitalized with a pelvis fracture. Fancher said that is when he decided to give himself up.

French Expert Believes One Sputnik Misfired

PARIS (AP)—A Parisian astronomer believes Russia misfired a Sputnik in mid-August.

Paul Couderc of the Paris Observatory told a capacity audience that the Haute Provence Observatory in southeastern France noted a "bizarre object" in the sky the night of Aug. 19 going toward the Mediterranean.

"We now believe it was an abortive attempt at launching a satellite," Couderc said.

Ohio School Boards Book Columbus Parley

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio School Boards Assn. will hold a two-day convention at the Veterans Memorial building here starting Tuesday.

A series of 52 discussion sessions is planned to help school board members and superintendents work out various problems of school administration.

New 'Western' Line-Up OKd For County

Transfer Petitions Turned Down by Unanimous Action

A new "Western" school district and a revised "Northeast" school district were created last night by the Pickaway County Board of Education.

Three school district transfer petitions were rejected by the board. The rejection resolutions will be sent to the State Board of Education for action.

The board, meeting in the office of superintendent of schools George McDowell, created two new districts which differ from the four-way county split originally planned by the board.

The new "Western" district is comprised of eight separate school districts—Monroe, Darby, Muhlenberg, Jackson, Perry, Deercreek, New Holland and Wayne.

The new "Northeast" district will be made up of Scioto, Harrison, Ashville Local, Madison and Walnut districts.

TRANSFER PETITIONS of New Holland, Wayne and a portion of the Logan Elm districts were rejected unanimously.

The Logan Elm petition, which asked transfer to the Circleville city school system for a portion of the district adjacent to the city, including Knollwood Village, was refused. The board said:

"We are not in sympathy with the transfer of this territory. We think those people will have a good school system and we think the new district will need the valuation.

"The local (Logan Elm) board has, as part of its minutes, an agreement to assign any student to another district if the student desires. We are sure their tax rate in the new district will never be as high as Circleville's."

The Wayne Twp. petition asked transfer of the entire Wayne district to Circleville. Board members agreed that the reason for the rejection is "The territory is considered essentially rural and a part of the county school district".

New Holland's petition was refused because, the board stated, "The district is an essential part of the Pickaway County School system. To release the territory would disrupt present consolidation plans of the county board of education."

Objection resolutions must be filed by the county board with the State Board of Education within 10 days. The state board then has 90 days in which to act. If the state

Ike, Top Advisers Hold New Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower held a second expanded National Security Council session today. He called in the greatest attendance of outside experts ever brought into one of these top policy-making meetings.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, acting White House press secretary, said there was no direct relationship between the meeting and Eisenhower's address tonight on science and security.

The speech, at 8 p. m. EST, is to be the first of a series of presidential addresses designed to reassure the nation about its scientific progress and security.

The series is on an accelerated schedule with this first one moved up six days ahead of the original plan.

While the specific purpose of the Security Council session was not disclosed, Mrs. Wheaton told reporters that "Yes, I would say it is connected with all developments of the last week or 10 days." That would take in the period of the launching of Sputnik II by Soviet Russia.

ALL TOLD, some 45 persons gathered at the White House for the NSC meeting.

The NSC has five members by law—the President, the vice president, the secretaries of state and defense and the director of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Customarily, other top officials from the White House and executive agencies also are brought in, so that some 25 persons are present.

Added to the list today were the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force and the chiefs of staff of the military services, plus members and advisers to the Science Advisory Committee of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

An enlarged NSC meeting was also held last week.

Although White House officials talked down the idea of any cause and effect connection the speed-up in the Eisenhower speaking program followed a special Cabinet meeting Wednesday and an announcement by Senate Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas of plans for a "searching inquiry" into the whole missiles and satellite programs.

Tonight's address also was timed, at least to some degree on purpose, to coincide with Russia's observance today of the 40th anniversary of the Red revolution.

EISENHOWER'S speech will be carried live by all national radio networks and the CBS television network. It will be carried on film by ABC-TV at 10:30 p. m. and by NBC-TV at 11:15.

Eisenhower announced more than a fortnight ago that he intended to strike out around the country and make a series of speeches to bolster national confidence in America's scientific progress, national defense and his foreign policy.

It was announced that the first address would be made in Oklahoma City Nov. 13. But suddenly the initial speech was rescheduled for Washington tonight. The President still plans to fly to Oklahoma and make one of the series of addresses there.

Ten House Republicans urged Eisenhower Wednesday night to tell the nation exactly where it stands, "regardless of how serious or unpleasant these facts may be."

They said "we cannot overstate the intense feeling expressed to us" by constituents they said are concerned over Russia's achievements in space.

Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass), criticizing "the complacency and the confusion" he said abound in the U. S. programs, also called on Eisenhower to "tell us exactly where we stand today and where we go from here."

U.S. County Officials Group Opens Confab

CINCINNATI (AP) — County officials from various parts of the country met here today to discuss various issues which will be before the next session of Congress.

They met under auspices of the National Assn. of County officials.

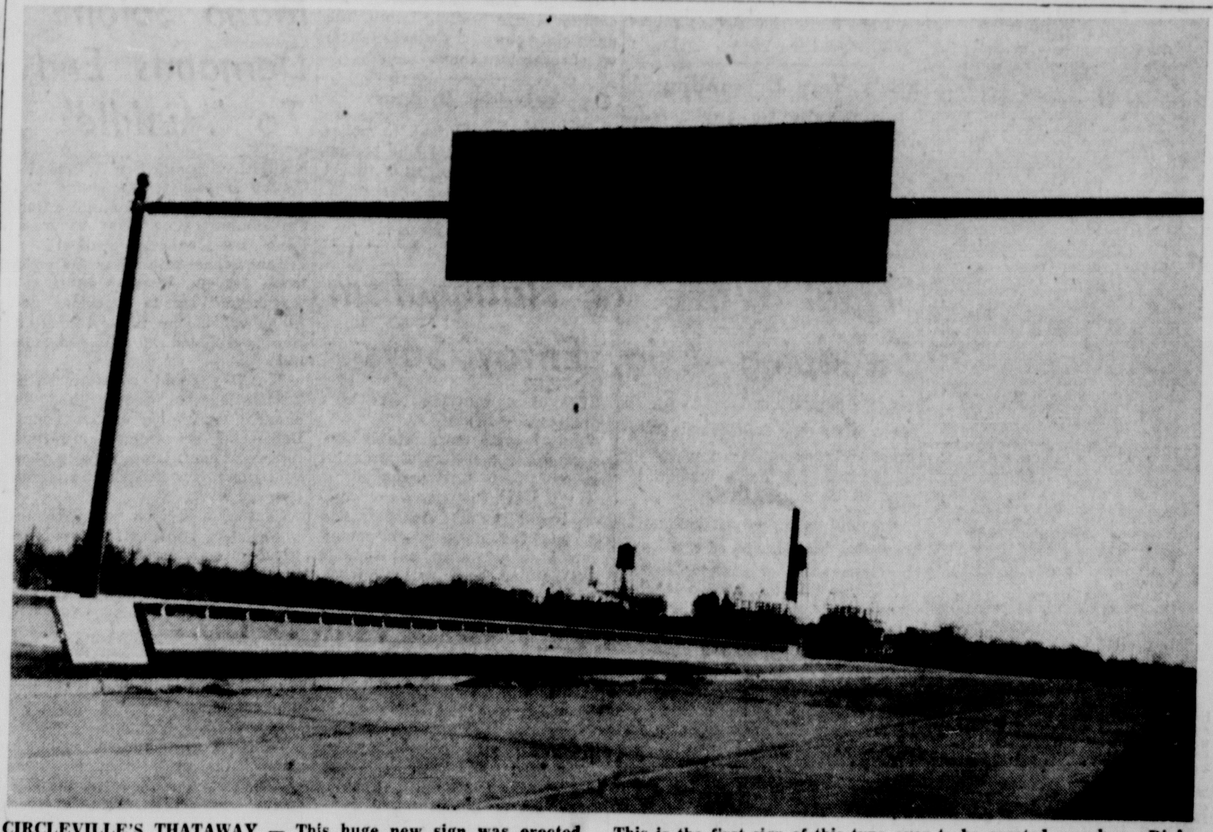

Bernard H. Hillenbrand, Washington, D. C. executive secretary, said civil defense, airports, water pollution, welfare administration, finance and highway matters would be discussed.

Ike Urged to OK Speedup in Rockets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) called on President Eisenhower today to back a speedup of rocket development and the sharing of nuclear weapons with U. S. allies.

Although Humphrey said Congress should be summoned into special session, it was evident Eisenhower intends to wait for a Dec. 3 conference with leaders of both parties to seek any legislative cooperation he may need.

Humphrey, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "much more is needed than a series of generalized 'pep-talks' by the President."

CIRCLEVILLE'S THATAWAY — This huge new sign was erected yesterday by the State Highway Department in response to local protests that the new Route 23 by-pass signs were misleading drivers right past Circleville. The new sign is 6 feet by 19 feet — the largest sign ever erected in Division Six and one of the largest in Ohio. It is all aluminum, with reflector-type paint and washes itself in the rain. This is the first sign of this type ever to be erected anywhere. Division Six officials, under the direction of Frank M. Williams, division deputy director, felt the sign was necessary to guide motorists to Circleville. The sign is located about 150 north of the Route 22 overhead and is for south-bound traffic.

MacArthur Given Newest Army Flag

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been presented with the new Army flag.

The flag, adopted last year, was presented to MacArthur Wednesday by Secretary of the Army Brucker. Former President Herbert Hoover was a guest.

In accepting the flag on Governors Island, MacArthur said: "In these, my twilight days, I shall wrap myself in its folds with a reverence and devotion which surpasses all understanding."

The flag has 145 battle streamers commemorating campaigns from Ticonderoga to Korea.

New 'Western'

decides to approve the transfer, the county board must do so within 30 days.

* * *

THE NEW "Western" consolidated school district is actually the old "Southwest" and "Northwest" districts combined into one, minus Scioto district.

The new "Northeast" district is the same as formerly, except that Scioto has been added. Making up the new "Northeast" district will be Scioto, Harrison, Ashville Local, Madison and Walnut districts.

All board action last night was unanimous.

There was some question as to the legality of the three transfer petitions, the board felt. The Lo-Elm petition, according to superintendent McDowell, may be short a signature and thus not have the required 75 per cent of the residents of the area involved in favor of the shift.

Both Wayne and New Holland petitions were not accompanied by maps outlining the territory to be transferred. The board said that it felt state law requires a map accompany the transfer petition.

Last month the board created three consolidated school districts, but later rescinded the action on a technicality. At that time the board had chopped the county into four consolidated districts—Logan Elm, Northeast, Northwest and Southwest. When the consolidation order was rescinded there was tentative agreement that the districts would be consolidated in the same manner at the next meeting. However, between then and now the board changed its feeling about the southwest and northwest districts.

Almost unanimous objections to the former plan by the boards of education of the districts involved probably was responsible for the new district. Board members said last night that the local boards were representative of the general feeling in the local districts and their attitudes toward consolidation should be considered, since they are the official elected representatives of the people.

U.S. Science Presses Hunt For New Fuel

More Powerful Rocket Booster Sought after Success of Sputniks

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Military scientists are pressing broad research in a quest for new or improved fuels to power big missiles and satellites.

But any bid in the near future to recapture the lead which Russia has taken in rocketry probably will be made with existing, tested types of power.

A Russian broadcast claimed the use of "improved new instruments and sources of power" in the launching of Sputnik II last weekend, but the broadcast gave no details.

At present, fuel for the large missile and for the primary engines of planned satellite launchers are liquid—a combination of forms of hydrocarbons (which burn) and an oxidizer (usually liquid oxygen called "lox") which enable them to burn at altitudes where there is little or no natural oxygen to support combustion.

These liquid fuels have disadvantages. Their use requires a maze of plumbing in rocket engines; liquid fuel is heavy for the amount of energy it yields; it is difficult and dangerous to handle.

There is a tendency toward solid fuels.

William M. Holaday, special defense assistant for guided missiles, said recently that the performance of solid propellents has been improved "to the point where they are nearing that of liquid propellents now used in current large liquid rockets."

He made those remarks at an address dedicating a rocket engine plant built by the Thiokol Chemical Corp. at Birmingham City, Utah. That plant, he commented, includes a chamber for testing rockets producing two million pounds of thrust. Holaday did not say that such rockets, using either liquid or solid fuel, are in existence now, but cited it as an example of goals in rocket development.

The trade publication Aviation Daily reports that the largest United States design, intended for the Titan ICBM, is of 300,000 pounds thrust. In contrast, Russia is described as having tested a rocket delivering 820,000 pounds, probably intended for use in the Soviet T-3 ICBM.

In the search for better fuels, one path has led toward the use of elements to boost the heat energy content of conventional carbons—as additives are used in automobile gasoline.

The magazine Missile and Rockets, does not appear to share Holaday's view that the use of solid fuel for big rocket engines is close. It suggests that such fuel for operational use of intermediate range ballistic missiles may be about five years away.

'Tidal Wave' of Nationalism Sweeping Asia, Envoy Says

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—With a sense of urgency, America's largest conference on Asia plunged into its first full day's session today.

"A tidal wave" of nationalism is sweeping the peoples of the East, Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter told the 1,500 delegates Wednesday night at the opening session of the sixth National Conference of UNESCO.

Speaking in the same gilt War Memorial Opera House where the United Nations was created 12 years ago, Herter told in urgent terms of his recent trip to Asia where he saw the Federation of Malaya born as a sovereign nation. He noted there had been 10 such sovereign births in the Orient since World War II.

"It would be a dull person indeed who would not conclude that a drive for freedom and self-determination has swept the perimeter of Asia with the force of a tidal wave," he said.

"But I was more deeply impressed with a feeling of matching intensity that I encountered in many places. This was the realization that illiteracy, sickness, misery and the other tragic components of a sub-marginal existence were not for them, or for anyone, a necessary condition of life."

Noting that America's amalgam of cultures comes mostly from the West, Herter declared:

"I think it is time we turned east toward Asia to listen and to learn. The delegates attending this conference have a rare opportunity to set a pattern which can be adopted from here, at the Pacific gateway, all the way to my home city of Boston."

Learning from Asia, Herter said, was one of the "new dimensions in diplomacy" which he discussed He called for mutual realization among all peoples that they are dependent on one another.

Organized Safety Movement 'Afraid,' Ohio Parley Told

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Public support is the key to traffic safety, but we don't have it, Thomas N. Boate of New York told the first All-Ohio one day traffic safety conference today.

The manager of the Accident Prevention Department of Casualty & Surety Companies asserted in a prepared address that support is lacking because the organized safety movement is afraid.

About 450 mayors, police chiefs and representatives of trade, civic, industrial and other groups registered for the session in the Deshler-Hilton Hotel.

Jesse T. Smith of Cleveland, chairman of the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee, presided. Gov. C. William O'Neill and Gordon Jeffery, state highway safety director, were featured speakers.

Detailing his reasons for the lack of public support for highway safety, Boate said:

"We have been afraid to tell the public the unvarnished truth about our traffic accident disaster.

"We have been afraid to ask Legislatures for enough money to do much more than a token job of traffic law enforcement.

"We have been afraid to require the courts to measure punishment by the breadth of this unparalled tragedy that is so peculiarly American.

"We have been afraid to crack down on the ticket fixers with the punishment they deserve.

"We have been afraid to fight for the kind of laws that every informed person in his safety movement knows to be utterly essential. . .

"We have been afraid to put enough policemen in the streets and highways to enforce even our present inadequate and sometimes antiquated traffic statutes."

Boate blamed self-interest for the situation. He said non-government safety organizations feared they might offend industries or corporations on which they depend for financial support.

Government agencies, he continued, have not battled for their needs for fear the public might throw them out.

Boate estimated the nations economic loss from traffic accidents at more than 6½ billion dollars annually. He said traffic accidents could be cut in half at an estimated saving of 145 million dollars annually in Ohio.

He said Ohio needs 652 more highway patrolmen to enforce present laws effectively. The additional cost to the state would be more than five million dollars annually but well worth it, he asserted.

"We shall not have public support," Boate concluded, "until we face—and face up to—the unpleasant facts of our problem and replace ineffectiveness with effectiveness."

U.S. Scientists Alert Today For New Red Space Venture

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. scientists watched closely today for any spectacular new Russian venture into space to celebrate this 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Western technicians have speculated the Soviets might try to land a rocket on the moon or announce some other spectacle as a followup to their launching of two earth satellites.

The Russians, crowing over their scientific achievements, have given no indication of immediate plans to reach the moon, some 225,000 miles away. However, some Soviet scientists have said such a feat is within reach.

Telescopes at the Naval Observatory were trained at the moon Wednesday night, as they have been for some time in connection with studies related to the International Geophysical Year.

Cmdr. W. M. Robinson, acting superintendent of the observatory, said "We're not just looking to see if a red star suddenly blossoms on the moon. But if anything hits the moon we expect to see it."

MEANTIME, skywatchers reported more sightings today of Russia's Sputnik II.

The Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow Wednesday night that Laika, the little dog strapped inside Sputnik II, was in satisfactory condition after four days in the sky. The Russians have said they are getting radio information from the satellite on Laika's heart action, blood pressure and breathing.

Tass said Sputnik II completed its 54th trip around the earth Wednesday night. This satellite was launched last Sunday.

The Soviet news agency said the first Russian space vehicle, a small sphere, had completed 500 circuits and its carrier rocket had finished 520 round trips. Sputnik I, accompanied by the rocket that pushed it aloft, has been in orbit since Oct. 4.

Tass said that on the basis of three days of radio reports from Sputnik II it was possible to ascertain its orbit more exactly and to estimate that the second satellite would stay up much longer than Sputnik I. Some American scientists have predicted the first satellite will drop Dec. 11 to a flaming death.

So far, American scientists have received little information from the Russians on the two satellites.

Hugh Odishaw, executive secretary of the U. S. National Committee for the IGY, said American officials do not expect to receive any such information from the Russians on Sputnik II for "several months at a minimum." Odishaw said this estimate is based on "our own experience with data from our own rocket program for the IGY."

Idaho Solon Demands End To 'Muddle'

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Sen. Frank F. Church (D-Idaho), demanding "an end to the missile muddle," urged the administration today to press for a new Manhattan Project.

Manhattan Project was the code name for the World War II research that led to American development of the first atomic bomb, exploded at Hiroshima in 1945.

The 33-year-old senator, in a keynote speech opening the 10th biennial convention of the Young Democrats of America, warned that American failure to keep pace with Russia "is to invite an attack upon us."

Church, a former young Democratic state president, accused the Eisenhower administration of complacency and of "spreading a barrage of bland ballyhoo which has tranquilized our country for five long years."

He emphasized it was under the Democratic administrations of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman that the United States perfected the new atomic weapon.

"The people have a right to know," he said, "that in giving birth to the Sputnik twins, the Russians have scored the most spectacular victory in the continuing psychological war between a Communist and a free government since the United States contrived and detonated the A-bomb 12 years ago."

Judge Delays Decision on Steel Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge has reserved decision on the government's motion for a summary judgment to block the merger of Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

At the end of two days of oral argument, Judge Edward Weinfeld Wednesday gave both sides additional time to prepare their case.

Weinfeld gave the government 10 days in which to answer a defense brief, and allowed the defense two weeks beyond that time to present affidavits about testimony it would produce at a trial.

Bethlehem is the nation's second largest steel firm, while Youngstown ranks fifth in the industry. The government contends the proposed merger would violate the antitrust laws.

The companies claim such a merger would stimulate rather than lessen competition.

In reserving decision and asking for additional facts, the judge suggested that a trial might not be needed since it would be "a reiteration of what you put in the affidavits."

The government is proceeding under Section 7 of the Clayton Act banning mergers where the effect "may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly."

The merger plan would involve combined assets in excess of $2,710,607,000, making it one of the largest corporation marriages in history.

Lye-Throwing Boy Sent to Asylum

NEW YORK (AP)—A 17-year-old schoolboy who nearly blinded another student by hurling lye in his face has been ordered confined in Matteawan State Hospital for the Insane.

Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz made the ruling in the case of Maurice Kessler for his attack on David Ozersky, 16, in a Brooklyn high school classroom Sept. 19.

It was feared for a time that Ozersky would lose his vision, but he recovered.

Rebels Slay Cypriot

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Police blamed EOKA rebels today for the murder of a 45-year-old Greek Cypriot, the first EOKA killing since the underground organization declared a truce last March.

Cincy Council Now Headed By Republicans

CINCINNATI (AP) — Republicans will have a one-vote majority in City Council here as the result of the first election under the simple majority system in more than three decades.

That's the setup under the unofficial count of all 724 city precincts. Republicans captured five seats; Carter Party incumbents took four.

Mayor Charles P. Taft, a Charterite in city elections, zoomed ahead of both parties' candidates in final results, followed by two other Charterites — Vincent H. Beckman and John J. Gilligan.

The successful GOP candidates followed in a cluster—incumbents Donald D. Clancy, William Cody Kelly, Walton H. Bachrach, and newcomers Gordon Rich and Joseph L. Decourcy.

Charterite Dorothy N. Dolbey, in a three-way fight for the ninth place under early returns, pulled away quickly in the late count to decisively gain reelection.

The Charter Party is a combination of Democrats and liberal Republicans that evolved during the years when Cincinnati voted for councilors under the proportional representation system.

Voters earlier this fall junked the PR system and substituted the simple majority method.

The selection of a new mayor, presumably a Republican, now is the object of speculation. The council elects the mayor.

Storms Trap Hunters

PIOCHE, Nev. (AP) — Weekend snow storms trapped at least 40 hunters in the rugged terrain of Eastern Nevada. These 40 were counted safe but highway patrolmen say there's no telling how many may still be marooned.

Sputnik 2nd May Come Apart

Radio Bands Appear Split

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Russia's new satellite may have come apart in space, scientists say.

While Dr. Fred L. Whipple, Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory director, said he had no confirmation of reports arriving from various sources that Sputnik II may be coming apart, he said that such a development was quite possible.

Andrew B. Ledwith, the observatory's radio technician, reported today that the radio tone of the satellite on the 20-megacycle band seemed to be spread out in time, as though coming from two separate radio-equipped objects.

There has been speculation that the Russians might attempt to eject the chamber carrying the dog, Laika, from the main rocket, possibly today—the 40th anniversary of the Russian Revolution.

The dog-carrying satellite was sighted by thousands of early risers as it orbited across the U. S. three times before sunrise today

The Moonwatch team on the roof of the Harvard Observatory timed the satellite at 5:11:12 a.m.

Dr. Armand Spitz, Smithsonian's coordinator of visual sighting, said the rocket appeared to be almost as bright as the planet Jupiter.

Observers noted the brightness changed until it was almost as dim as a faint star approximately every few seconds. This was because the object was tumbling end over end in space.

The satellite was estimated to be only 150 miles high

* * *

IN SAN FRANCISCO Wednesday, the new satellite looked brighter and faster than Sputnik I as it zipped over the southwest horizon at dawn. It disappeared to the northeast after about four minutes.

Dr. Gerard Kuiper, director of the University of Chicago's Yerkes Observatory at Lake Geneva, Wis. observed the satellite for two minutes through binoculars.

His calculations indicate, he said, that the rocket makes a complete end-over-end tumble each four to six minutes.

Kuiper, in his report to the university, said that at its brightest, the satellite, which reflects the sun's light, was of -3 degrees magnitude, in the same order as Venus and Jupiter.

In Cleveland, William Kennedy, a U. S. Weather Bureau forecaster, said he saw the satellite with the naked eye. He said he couldn't tell the shape, but it looked "something like a fat star."

MacArthur Given Newest Army Flag

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been presented with the new Army flag.

The flag, adopted last year, was presented to MacArthur Wednesday by Secretary of the Army Brucker. Former President Herbert Hoover was a guest.

In accepting the flag on Governors Island, MacArthur said: "In these, my twilight days, I shall wrap myself in its folds with a reverence and devotion which surpasses all understanding."

The flag has 145 battle streamers commemorating campaigns from Ticonderoga to Korea.

New 'Western'

decides to approve the transfer, the county board must do so within 30 days.

* * *

THE NEW "Western" consolidated school district is actually the old "Southwest" and "Northwest" districts combined into one, minus Scioto district.

The new "Northeast" district is the same as formerly, except that Scioto has been added. Making up the new "Northeast" district will be Scioto, Harrison, Ashville Local, Madison and Walnut districts.

All board action last night was unanimous.

There was some question as to the legality of the three transfer petitions, the board felt. The Lo-Elm petition, according to superintendent McDowell, may be short a signature and thus not have the required 75 per cent of the residents of the area involved in favor of the shift.

Both Wayne and New Holland petitions were not accompanied by maps outlining the territory to be transferred. The board said that it felt state law requires a map accompany the transfer petition.

Last month the board created three consolidated school districts, but later rescinded the action on a technicality. At that time the board had chopped the county into four consolidated districts—Logan Elm, Northeast, Northwest and Southwest. When the consolidation order was rescinded there was tentative agreement that the districts would be consolidated in the same manner at the next meeting. However, between then and now the board changed its feeling about the southwest and northwest districts.

Almost unanimous objections to the former plan by the boards of education of the districts involved probably was responsible for the new district. Board members said last night that the local boards were representative of the general feeling in the local districts and their attitudes toward consolidation should be considered, since they are the official elected representatives of the people.

U.S. Science Presses Hunt For New Fuel

More Powerful Rocket Booster Sought after Success of Sputniks

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Military scientists are pressing broad research in a quest for new or improved fuels to power big missiles and satellites.

But any bid in the near future to recapture the lead which Russia has taken in rocketry probably will be made with existing, tested types of power.

A Russian broadcast claimed the use of "improved new instruments and sources of power" in the launching of Sputnik II last weekend, but the broadcast gave no details.

At present, fuel for the large missile and for the primary engines of planned satellite launchers are liquid—a combination of forms of hydrocarbons (which burn) and an oxidizer (usually liquid oxygen called "lox") which enable them to burn at altitudes where there is little or no natural oxygen to support combustion.

These liquid fuels have disadvantages. Their use requires a maze of plumbing in rocket engines; liquid fuel is heavy for the amount of energy it yields; it is difficult and dangerous to handle.

There is a tendency toward solid fuels.

William M. Holaday, special defense assistant for guided missiles, said recently that the performance of solid propellents has been improved "to the point where they are nearing that of liquid propellents now used in current large liquid rockets."

He made those remarks at an address dedicating a rocket engine plant built by the Thiokol Chemical Corp. at Birmingham City, Utah. That plant, he commented, includes a chamber for testing rockets producing two million pounds of thrust. Holaday did not say that such rockets, using either liquid or solid fuel, are in existence now, but cited it as an example of goals in rocket development.

The trade publication Aviation Daily reports that the largest United States design, intended for the Titan ICBM, is of 300,000 pounds thrust. In contrast, Russia is described as having tested a rocket delivering 820,000 pounds, probably intended for use in the Soviet T-3 ICBM.

In the search for better fuels, one path has led toward the use of elements to boost the heat energy content of conventional carbons—as additives are used in automobile gasoline.

The magazine Missile and Rockets, does not appear to share Holaday's view that the use of solid fuel for big rocket engines is close. It suggests that such fuel for operational use of intermediate range ballistic missiles may be about five years away.

'Tidal Wave' of Nationalism Sweeping Asia, Envoy Says

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—With a sense of urgency, America's largest conference on Asia plunged into its first full day's session today.

"A tidal wave" of nationalism is sweeping the peoples of the East, Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter told the 1,500 delegates Wednesday night at the opening session of the sixth National Conference of UNESCO.

Speaking in the same gilt War Memorial Opera House where the United Nations was created 12 years ago, Herter told in urgent terms of his recent trip to Asia where he saw the Federation of Malaya born as a sovereign nation. He noted there had been 10 such sovereign births in the Orient since World War II.

"It would be a dull person indeed who would not conclude that a drive for freedom and self-determination has swept the perimeter of Asia with the force of a tidal wave," he said.

"But I was more deeply impressed with a feeling of matching intensity that I encountered in many places. This was the realization that illiteracy, sickness, misery and the other tragic components of a sub-marginal existence were not for them, or for anyone, a necessary condition of life."

Noting that America's amalgam of cultures comes mostly from the West, Herter declared:

"I think it is time we turned east toward Asia to listen and to learn. The delegates attending this conference have a rare opportunity to set a pattern which can be adopted from here, at the Pacific gateway, all the way to my home city of Boston."

Learning from Asia, Herter said, was one of the "new dimensions in diplomacy" which he discussed. He called for mutual realization among all peoples that they are dependent on one another.

Organized Safety Movement 'Afraid,' Ohio Parley Told

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Public support is the key to traffic safety, but we don't have it, Thomas N. Boate of New York told the first All-Ohio one day traffic safety conference today.

The manager of the Accident Prevention Department of Casualty & Surety Companies asserted in a prepared address that support is lacking because the organized safety movement is afraid.

About 450 mayors, police chiefs and representatives of trade, civic, industrial and other groups registered for the session in the Deshler-Hilton Hotel.

Jesse T. Smith of Cleveland, chairman of the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee, presided. Gov. C. William O'Neill and Gordon Jeffery, state highway safety director, were featured speakers.

Detailing his reasons for the lack of public support for highway safety, Boate said:

"We have been afraid to tell the public the unvarnished truth about our traffic accident disaster.

"We have been afraid to ask Legislatures for enough money to do much more than a token job of traffic law enforcement.

"We have been afraid to require the courts to measure punishment by the breadth of this unparalled tragedy that is so peculiarly American.

"We have been afraid to crack down on the ticket fixers with the punishment they deserve.

"We have been afraid to fight for the kind of laws that every informed person in his safety movement knows to be utterly essential. . .

"We have been afraid to put enough policemen in the streets and highways to enforce even our present inadequate and sometimes antiquated traffic statutes."

Boate blamed self-interest for the situation. He said non-government safety organizations feared they might offend industries or corporations on which they depend for financial support.

Government agencies, he continued, have not battled for their needs for fear the public might throw them out.

Boate estimated the nations economic loss from traffic accidents at more than 6½ billion dollars annually. He said traffic accidents could be cut in half at an estimated saving of 145 million dollars annually in Ohio.

He said Ohio needs 652 more highway patrolmen to enforce present laws effectively. The additional cost to the state would be more than five million dollars annually but well worth it, he asserted.

"We shall not have public support," Boate concluded, "until we face—and face up to—the unpleasant facts of our problem and replace ineffectiveness with effectiveness."

U.S. Scientists Alert Today For New Red Space Venture

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. scientists watched closely today for any spectacular new Russian venture into space to celebrate this 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Western technicians have speculated the Soviets might try to land a rocket on the moon or announce some other spectacle as a followup to their launching of two earth satellites.

The Russians, crowing over their scientific achievements, have given no indication of immediate plans to reach the moon, some 225,000 miles away. However, some Soviet scientists have said such a feat is within reach.

Telescopes at the Naval Observatory were trained at the moon Wednesday night, as they have been for some time in connection with studies related to the International Geophysical Year.

Cmdr. W. M. Robinson, acting superintendent of the observatory, said "We're not just looking to see if a red star suddenly blossoms on the moon. But if anything hits the moon we expect to see it."

MEANTIME, skywatchers reported more sightings today of Russia's Sputnik II.

The Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow Wednesday night that Laika, the little dog strapped inside Sputnik II, was in satisfactory condition after four days in the sky. The Russians have said they are getting radio information from the satellite on Laika's heart action, blood pressure and breathing.

Tass said Sputnik II completed its 54th trip around the earth Wednesday night. This satellite was launched last Sunday.

The Soviet news agency said the first Russian space vehicle, a small sphere, had completed 500 circuits and its carrier rocket had finished 520 round trips. Sputnik I, accompanied by the rocket that pushed it aloft, has been in orbit since Oct. 4.

Tass said that on the basis of three days of radio reports from Sputnik II it was possible to ascertain its orbit more exactly and to estimate that the second satellite would stay up much longer than Sputnik I. Some American scientists have predicted the first satellite will drop Dec. 11 to a flaming death.

So far, American scientists have received little information from the Russians on the two satellites.

Hugh Odishaw, executive secretary of the U. S. National Committee for the IGY, said American officials do not expect to receive any such information from the Russians on Sputnik II for "several months at a minimum." Odishaw said this estimate is based on "our own experience with data from our own rocket program for the IGY."

Mrs. Hattie Mettler Kitchen died today at her home in Adelphi at 7 a. m. after an illness of two weeks.

She was born in Hocking County Sept. 23, 1874 the daughter of Andrew and Jane Mettler. She was a member of the Pythian Sisters of Adelphi Temple 563.

She was married to Elmer Kitchen who died in 1935.

Survivors include three sons, Nolan, Route 2, Chillicothe; Barton, Adelphi and Ray, Dayton, four great grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Valentine, and Mrs. Mazie Cain both of Columbus and a brother, Tom Mettler, Laurelville.

Funeral arrangements are being completed by the Hill Funeral Home, Kingston.

Idaho Solon Demands End To 'Muddle'

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Sen. Frank F. Church (D-Idaho), demanding "an end to the missile muddle," urged the administration today to press for a new Manhattan Project.

Manhattan Project was the code name for the World War II research that led to American development of the first atomic bomb, exploded at Hiroshima in 1945.

The 33-year-old senator, in a keynote speech opening the 10th biennial convention of the Young Democrats of America, warned that American failure to keep pace with Russia "is to invite an attack upon us."

Church, a former young Democratic state president, accused the Eisenhower administration of complacency and of "spreading a barrage of bland ballyhoo which has tranquilized our country for five long years."

He emphasized it was under the Democratic administrations of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman that the United States perfected the new atomic weapon.

"The people have a right to know," he said, "that in giving birth to the Sputnik twins, the Russians have scored the most spectacular victory in the continuing psychological war between a Communist and a free government since the United States contrived and detonated the A-bomb 12 years ago."

That's the setup under the unofficial count of all 724 city precincts. Republicans captured five seats; Carter Party incumbents took four.

Mayor Charles P. Taft, a Charterite in city elections, zoomed ahead of both parties' candidates in final results, followed by two other Charterites — Vincent H. Beckman and John J. Gilligan.

The successful GOP candidates followed in a cluster—incumbents Donald D. Clancy, William Cody Kelly, Walton H. Bachrach, and newcomers Gordon Rich and Joseph L. Decourcy.

Charterite Dorothy N. Dolbey, in a three-way fight for the ninth place under early returns, pulled away quickly in the late count to decisively gain reelection.

The Charter Party is a combination of Democrats and liberal Republicans that evolved during the years when Cincinnati voted for councilors under the proportional representation system.

Voters earlier this fall junked the PR system and substituted the simple majority method.

The selection of a new mayor, presumably a Republican, now is the object of speculation. The council elects the mayor.

Judge Delays Decision on Steel Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge has reserved decision on the government's motion for a summary judgment to block the merger of Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

At the end of two days of oral argument, Judge Edward Weinfeld Wednesday gave both sides additional time to prepare their case.

Weinfeld gave the government 10 days in which to answer a defense brief, and allowed the defense two weeks beyond that time to present affidavits about testimony it would produce at a trial.

Bethlehem is the nation's second largest steel firm, while Youngstown ranks fifth in the industry. The government contends the proposed merger would violate the antitrust laws.

The companies claim such a merger would stimulate rather than lessen competition.

In reserving decision and asking for additional facts, the judge suggested that a trial might not be needed since it would be "a reiteration of what you put in the affidavits."

The government is proceeding under Section 7 of the Clayton Act banning mergers where the effect "may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly."

The merger plan would involve combined assets in excess of $2,710,607,000, making it one of the largest corporation marriages in history.

Lye-Throwing Boy Sent to Asylum

NEW YORK (AP)—A 17-year-old schoolboy who nearly blinded another student by hurling lye in his face has been ordered confined in Matteawan State Hospital for the Insane.

Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz made the ruling in the case of Maurice Kessler for his attack on David Ozersky, 16, in a Brooklyn high school classroom Sept. 19.

It was feared for a time that Ozersky would lose his vision, but he recovered.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Police blamed EOKA rebels today for the murder of a 45-year-old Greek Cypriot, the first EOKA killing since the underground organization declared a truce last March.

Sputnik 2nd May Come Apart

Radio Bands Appear Split

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Russia's new satellite may have come apart in space, scientists say.

While Dr. Fred L. Whipple, Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory director, said he had no confirmation of reports arriving from various sources that Sputnik II may be coming apart, he said that such a development was quite possible.

Andrew B. Ledwith, the observatory's radio technician, reported today that the radio tone of the satellite on the 20-megacycle band seemed to be spread out in time, as though coming from two separate radio-equipped objects.

There has been speculation that the Russians might attempt to eject the chamber carrying the dog, Laika, from the main rocket, possibly today—the 40th anniversary of the Russian Revolution.

The dog-carrying satellite was sighted by thousands of early risers as it orbited across the U. S. three times before sunrise today.

The Moonwatch team on the roof of the Harvard Observatory timed the satellite at 5:11:12 a.m.

Dr. Armand Spitz, Smithsonian's coordinator of visual sighting, said the rocket appeared to be almost as bright as the planet Jupiter.

Observers noted the brightness changed until it was almost as dim as a faint star approximately every few seconds. This was because the object was tumbling end over end in space.

The satellite was estimated to be only 150 miles high

* * *

IN SAN FRANCISCO Wednesday, the new satellite looked brighter and faster than Sputnik I as it zipped over the southwest horizon at dawn. It disappeared to the northeast after about four minutes.

Dr. Gerard Kuiper, director of the University of Chicago's Yerkes Observatory at Lake Geneva, Wis. observed the satellite for two minutes through binoculars.

His calculations indicate, he said, that the rocket makes a complete end-over-end tumble each four to six minutes.

Kuiper, in his report to the university, said that at its brightest, the satellite, which reflects the sun's light, was of -3 degrees magnitude, in the same order as Venus and Jupiter.

In Cleveland, William Kennedy, a U. S. Weather Bureau forecaster, said he saw the satellite with the naked eye. He said he couldn't tell the shape, but it looked "something like a fat star."

Cyprus Situation Improves

Good news does appear once in a while, though it seems too often to be eclipsed by the bad. In the ticklish situation on the island of Cyprus in the eastern Mediterranean, the British have made a change which promises better things.

They have replaced Field Marshal Sir John Harding, a soldier sent in to put down the uprising by the Greeks on Cyprus, with a civilian, Sir Hugh Foot, former governor of Jamaica. This not only indicates that tension has lessened, but that moves can now be made toward a settlement.

Not only has the subduing of the revolt had much to do with the altering of the British position, but the Suez war was an eye-opener. The British had contended they had to have Cyprus as a base to protect their interests in the Middle East, even though the Greek residents favored union with Greece.

But Cyprus proved utterly inadequate for this purpose when the British moved into Egypt last year. It would be all to the good if this sore spot among the world's troubles could be speedily eliminated.

Weather Changes Affect Man

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—A change of weather affects mankind. It always does.

One who loves people can develop a feeling toward the impact of weather on persons.

Sometimes it is good, sometimes bad. Sometimes it is hidden.

On me the effect of weather is obvious. The weather is a thing that gives me both an inspiration and a sense of duty. It does to most people.

On a visit to the far Northwest I saw a couple of Douglas fir trees cut down. It was a memorable scene. They made an echo as they fell. As they fell down the hill, they fell across my heart. All those years of living, even in a tree, must stir an echo.

But the individual death of a tree is not a personal thing, something not missed because you presumed its presence. The came a day when you looked toward it for routine comfort and it had gone. The shelter of the commonplace was no longer there, and the meadow held a mystery.

You look back, and the tree cut down holds the memory of something against the sky. Your eye remembers.

One tree against the forest? How in autumn can a man know his way through the forest except by the trees?

In the colorful wilderness of their falling leaves he feels a kinship knit by their shedding and his eternal human renewal.

There is a feeling of time and timing in this world — on the bough and in the man.

And in the time of falling leaves a man can walk in the wood, admire the scarlet splendor of nature in its final flourish and see the fall of leaves that happy children will rake up with a shout in the age-old game beyond decay.

A man can endure the torment of autumn after autumn—the frigid repetitiveness of winter after winter—in the hope that he can enjoy again the fresh agony of spring, year after year, after year.

The Russia of 40 Years Ago

By George Sokolsky

Forty years ago, this month, I was in Petrograd, working on the Russian Daily News, an English-language paper in the Russian capital. Working on a local newspaper was very difficult because whatever appeared made a local impression and the Bolsheviks were moving into power.

The Bolsheviks were a small party that originated in London in 1903 within the Social Democratic Party, followers of Karl Marx. The word, bolshevik, meant majority and represented the group that followed Lenin. Those who were opposed to Lenin in the Social Democratic Party were called Mensheviks. Both groups were mostly intellectuals with Central or Western European training. Most of them knew Berlin, Zurich or London more familiarly than Petrograd or Moscow.

It was one of my duties to visit these Bolsheviks at their headquarters in Smolny Institute. In this aristocratic girls school there were constant meetings, sessions, conferences. There never was any question as to the pre-emnence of Lenin, a short, mild man, blondish, cheerful, a philosopher rather than a man of action.

Emerging rapidly to the top was Leon Trotzky, a Menshevik, who had decided to throw his lot in with the Bolsheviks after he returned to Russia from New York where he edited a small revolutionary newspaper in Russian, worked as a tailor and even as an extra in a movie at Fort Lee, New Jersey. Trotzky, in addition to being an intellectual, was also a man of action. Lenin was a dull speaker; Trotzky brilliant in speech and gesture. Lenin was from a Slavic land-owning family; Trotzky a Jew from Odessa.

I had known Trotzky in New York. He was interesting, stirring, fanatical, I saw Lenin often at the Smolny and other places. I found him cold, distant, bookish. These two men formed a partnership in revolution. What one lacked, the other had. Together they changed the world.

In Petrograd the last vestige of law and order had disappeared. Food was becoming so scarce that a Hershey bar was a treasure. Women were selling themselves for a lump of sugar or an egg. Money had lost all value and the bits of paper we carried daily bought less and less.

Rumors were constant that General Kornilov was coming; that he would re-establish the monarchy; that he would restore the old landowners. Everywhere politicians of all the political parties were making speeches against Kerensky, against Great Britain, against Japan, against Woodrow Wilson, against each other. The mood may be described in the one word, against.

But there was another side to all this, namely that Russia had lost about 9,000,000 troops in World War I; the Russian people felt that they had been betrayed by a court camarilla headed by the monk Rasputin who had only recently been shot by Prince Yussupov. The people wanted land, liberty and peace. And it was that slogan which the Bolsheviks seized and made their own.

Petrograd was always full of rumors. Kornilov is coming! Kerensky had run away! The garrisons had gone over to the Bolsheviks!

Do you want to buy an egg? I have one in my brief case, here! A hundred rubles for an egg, Cheap, no? After all an egg is food. What is a hundred rubles? Tomorrow that egg might cost a thousand rubles.

At night, the cafe chantants were doing a terrific business. These night clubs were like our own, full of middle-class people whom the world was passing by. Girls would sing songs making fun of Lenin and Trotzky and the Bolsheviks. "They want to rule Russia, ha, ha, ha!"

And then it all happened. The Kronstadt sailors had actually gone over to Lenin and Trotzky and the day of revolution had come. Kerensky had disappeared. We were told that the Japanese were moving into Siberia; that the British were taking Archangel; that the French were landing at Odessa; that the Germans were on their way to Petrograd.

Snow was on the ground — a Russian, northern snow. The long, depressing winter nights had set in. We newspapermen were told that the Kronstadt sailors would lay siege to the Winter Palace at 4 a. m. What to do? Some of us went to a symphony concert conducted by Glazunov. Afterwards we went to a cafe chantant to hear songs ridiculing Lenin and Trotzky.

It was soon over. The Red Star had appeared in the firmament.

Shots Curb Tobacco Habit

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Have the smoking habit? Want to break it?

If so, you might be interested in the experiments of a Swedish physician, Dr. B. Ejrup, who used injections of lobeline hydrochloride to help patients give up smoking. He reports good results in certain cases. Some 73 per cent of those he treated cut their smoking by 75 per cent or give it up completely.

Lobeline, a synthetic drug, seems to cut the craving a person has for tobacco. Some of the patients tested reported cigarettes became tasteless, although there was no disagreeable taste in the mouth or other discomfort while smoking during the length of the treatment.

Only three patients of the 133 who took part in the experiments noticed a slight nausea about an hour after the drug was injected.

Now, why do persons want to give up smoking?

Not for the reason you might think. Dr. Ejrup says that fear of lung cancer was not a common incentive for combating the tobacco habit.

Actually, he found that the chief reasons given by his patients were hygiene and the fact that smoking had become expensive for them.

His reports on the tests indicate to me that giving up smoking might not be as difficult as most of you think. For example, Dr. Ejrup used a placebo (an injection which should have had no effect at all) on other patients to check the reaction of those who got the placebo only, and none of the drug, reacted favorably and cut their smoking.

Dr. Ejrup concludes that apparently "suggestion" plays an important part in breaking the tobacco habit.

Let me add emphatically that I think it does, too.

Question and Answer

J.L.M.: I believe I am suffering from diabetes. Can you tell me what a good diet would be?

Answer: The treatment of diabetes is mainly through the diet and injections of insulin when the condition cannot be controlled by diet. The kind of diet in any case depends on the severity of the disease.

Latest nose count in New York City shows that metropolis has suffered a shrinkage of its population. This, says Zadok Dumkopf, is only natural seeing that all those Giant and Dodger ball players are gone to do business elsewhere.

In London, England, 200 university students staged a street brawl using fire extinguishers as weapons. That should have cooled off hot tempers.

An Azores island was born of a volcanic eruption, broke in two and then vanished — all within 30 days. A brief life but an exciting one!

This year there have been far fewer instances of college students engaging in the silly practice of hanging the football coach in effigy. Then again, it may still be too early in the season.

That new island which appeared in the Azores 30 days ago has already disappeared—before it could be named. How about "Plop!"?

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Forty years ago today Communists seized power in Russia. What's happened in that time? What lies ahead?

In 40 years the Russians have made astonishing progress in industry and science. The progress has been concentrated most notably on weapons, the atomic and H-bombs, jet planes, missiles and earth satellites.

That progress would have provided the Russian people with far higher living standards—if it had been devoted to peacetime goods.

In short, a couple of generations of Russians have been used—while forced to do without the modern conveniences and luxuries of the West—to bring Russia abreast of the West industrially in a rush. It worked.

There is no visible discontent in Russia. Living standards can be expected to go up continually as industrial-scientific development is expanded to meet more of the people's needs.

In one spot—the political system—Russia is still immensely backward. A comparatively small group of self-appointed leaders — perhaps 10 million out of more than 200 million people—still rule it by force.

Red party control is a little more relaxed than in Stalin's day. In time perhaps it too will undergo a change and become more democratic, permitting wider participation in government for one of two reasons: either through evolutionary change or the demands and pressures of the people as they become increasingly more educated and questioning.

No government remains fixed and frozen forever. History belies that thought.

On one thing the Red bosses of 1917 were wrong: they thought then world revolution was just around the corner. Disappointed in that, but aggressively crusading, they set out to bring about what didn't happen by itself.

In 40 years—by force and never by persuasion or open and free elections — communism has grabbed all of Eastern Europe, all of China, half of Viet Nam, and North Korea. Its influence is spreading in Asia and the Middle East.

The peoples of the European satellites have shown vast discontent with their Russian masters. That does not mean communism will not spread without the use of Russian armies.

As the years pass, and Russians live better, they will probably move more toward capitalism. And the Western powers, to offset the gains of communism, may be forced to move more toward socialism.

LAWRENCE LANGNER, absent-minded impressario, boarded a taxi in New York City and announced, "I've only 20 minutes to catch my train. Please get me to Grand Central as quickly as you can." He then opened his evening paper. Fifteen minutes and ten pages later, he looked up for the first time and discovered there was no driver in the cab.

John Charles Daly overheard this choice bit of repartee at the Rye (N.Y.) railroad station: A commuter slapped a 4-year-old boy on the back and inquired heartily, "Well, there, Jocko, what do you know?" The kid answered very seriously, "You know perfectly well I don't know anything!"

On me the effect of weather is obvious. The weather is a thing that gives me both an inspiration and a sense of duty. It does to most people.

On a visit to the far Northwest I saw a couple of Douglas fir trees cut down. It was a memorable scene. They made an echo as they fell. As they fell down the hill, they fell across my heart. All those years of living, even in a tree, must stir an echo.

But the individual death of a tree is not a personal thing, something not missed because you presumed its presence. The came a day when you looked toward it for routine comfort and it had gone. The shelter of the commonplace was no longer there, and the meadow held a mystery.

You look back, and the tree cut down holds the memory of something against the sky. Your eye remembers.

One tree against the forest? How in autumn can a man know his way through the forest except by the trees?

In the colorful wilderness of their falling leaves he feels a kinship knit by their shedding and his eternal human renewal.

There is a feeling of time and timing in this world — on the bough and in the man.

And in the time of falling leaves a man can walk in the wood, admire the scarlet splendor of nature in its final flourish and see the fall of leaves that happy children will rake up with a shout in the age-old game beyond decay.

A man can endure the torment of autumn after autumn—the frigid repetitiveness of winter after winter—in the hope that he can enjoy again the fresh agony of spring, year after year, after year.

The Russia of 40 Years Ago

By George Sokolsky

Forty years ago, this month, I was in Petrograd, working on the Russian Daily News, an English-language paper in the Russian capital. Working on a local newspaper was very difficult because whatever appeared made a local impression and the Bolsheviks were moving into power.

The Bolsheviks were a small party that originated in London in 1903 within the Social Democratic Party, followers of Karl Marx. The word, bolshevik, meant majority and represented the group that followed Lenin. Those who were opposed to Lenin in the Social Democratic Party were called Mensheviks. Both groups were mostly intellectuals with Central or Western European training. Most of them knew Berlin, Zurich, London more familiarly than Petrograd or Moscow.

It was one of my duties to visit these Bolsheviks at their headquarters in Smolny Institute. In this aristocratic girls school there were constant meetings, sessions, conferences. There never was any question as to the pre-emnence of Lenin, a short, mild man, blondish, cheerful, a philosopher rather than a man of action.

Emerging rapidly to the top was Leon Trotzky, a Menshevik, who had decided to throw his lot in with the Bolsheviks after he returned to Russia from New York where he edited a small revolutionary newspaper in Russian, worked as a tailor and even as an extra in a movie at Fort Lee, New Jersey. Trotzky, in addition to being an intellectual, was also a man of action. Lenin was a dull speaker; Trotzky brilliant in speech and gesture. Lenin was from a Slavic land-owning family; Trotzky a Jew from Odessa.

I had known Trotzky in New York. He was interesting, stirring, fanatical. I saw Lenin often at the Smolny and other places. I found him cold, distant, bookish. These two men formed a partnership in revolution. What one lacked, the other had. Together they changed the world.

In Petrograd the last vestige of law and order had disappeared. Food was becoming so scarce that a Hershey bar was a treasure. Women were selling themselves for a lump of sugar or an egg. Money had lost all value and the bits of paper we carried daily bought less and less.

Rumors were constant that General Kornilov was coming; that he would re-establish the monarchy; that he would restore the old landowners. Everywhere politicians of all the political parties were making speeches against Kerensky, against Great Britain, against Japan, against Woodrow Wilson against each other. The mood may be described in the one word, against.

But there was another side to all this, namely that Russia had lost about 9,000,000 troops in World War I; the Russian people felt that they had been betrayed by a court camarilla headed by the monk Rasputin who had only recently been shot by Prince Yussupov. The people wanted land, liberty and peace. And it was that slogan which the Bolsheviks seized and made their own.

Petrograd was always full of rumors. Kornilov is coming! Kerensky had run away! The garrisons had gone over to the Bolsheviks!

Do you want to buy an egg? I have one in my brief case, here! A hundred rubles for an egg. Cheap, no? After all an egg is food. What is a hundred rubles? Tomorrow that egg might cost a thousand rubles.

At night, the cafe chantants were doing a terrific business. These night clubs were like our own, full of middle-class people whom the world was passing by. Girls would sing songs making fun of Lenin and Trotzky and the Bolsheviks. "They want to rule Russia, ha, ha, ha!"

And then it all happened. The Kronstadt sailors had actually gone over to Lenin and Trotzky and the day of revolution had come. Kerensky had disappeared. We were told that the Japanese were moving into Siberia; that the British were taking Archangel; that the French were landing at Odessa; that the Germans were on their way to Petrograd.

Snow was on the ground — a Russian, northern snow. The long, depressing winter nights had set in. We newspapermen were told that the Kronstadt sailors would lay siege to the Winter Palace at 4 a. m. What to do? Some of us went to a symphony concert conducted by Glazunov. Afterwards we went to a cafe chantant to hear songs ridiculing Lenin and Trotzky.

It was soon over. The Red Star had appeared in the firmament.

Shots Curb Tobacco Habit

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Have the smoking habit? Want to break it?

If so, you might be interested in the experiments of a Swedish physician, Dr. B. Ejrup, who used injections of lobeline hydrochloride to help patients give up smoking. He reports good results in certain cases. Some 73 per cent of those he treated cut their smoking by 75 per cent or give it up completely.

Lobeline, a synthetic drug, seems to cut the craving a person has for tobacco. Some of the patients tested reported cigarettes became tasteless, although there was no disagreeable taste in the mouth or other discomfort while smoking during the length of the treatment.

Only three patients of the 133 who took part in the experiments noticed a slight nausea about an hour after the drug was injected.

Now, why do persons want to give up smoking?

Not for the reason you might think. Dr. Ejrup says that fear of lung cancer was not a common incentive for combating the tobacco habit.

Actually, he found that the chief reasons given by his patients were hygiene and the fact that smoking had become expensive for them.

His reports on the tests indicate to me that giving up smoking might not be as difficult as most of you think. For example, Dr. Ejrup used a placebo (an injection which should have had no effect at all) on other patients to check the reaction of those who got the placebo only, and none of the drug, reacted favorably and cut their smoking.

Dr. Ejrup concludes that apparently "suggestion" plays an important part in breaking the tobacco habit.

Let me add emphatically that I think it does, too.

Question and Answer

J.L.M.: I believe I am suffering from diabetes. Can you tell me what a good diet would be?

Answer: The treatment of diabetes is mainly through the diet and injections of insulin when the condition cannot be controlled by diet. The kind of diet in any case depends on the severity of the disease.

Latest nose count in New York City shows that metropolis has suffered a shrinkage of its population. This, says Zadok Dumkopf, is only natural seeing that all those Giant and Dodger ball players are gone to do business elsewhere.

In London, England, 200 university students staged a street brawl using fire extinguishers as weapons. That should have cooled off hot tempers.

An Azores island was born of a volcanic eruption, broke in two and then vanished — all within 30 days. A brief life but an exciting one!

See where Russia's big boss, Nikita Khrushchev, has bought himself some Italian custom-made clothing. Knowing that Khrushy's favorite nip is vodka, we doubt whether the wardrobe includes a beer suit.

A Latin American nation has suspended its constitutional guarantees What it needs is some guaranteed constitutional guarantees.

An English one-year-old won't eat baby food, insists on having beef and beer. Wonder what kind of cigars he prefers?

This year there have been far fewer instances of college students engaging in the silly practice of hanging the football coach in effigy. Then again, it may still be too early in the season.

That new island which appeared in the Azores 30 days ago has already disappeared—before it could be named. How about "Plop!"?

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Forty years ago today Communists seized power in Russia. What's happened in that time? What lies ahead?

In 40 years the Russians have made astonishing progress in industry and science. The progress has been concentrated most notably on weapons, the atomic and H-bombs, jet planes, missiles and earth satellites.

That progress would have provided the Russian people with far higher living standards—if it had been devoted to peacetime goods.

In short, a couple of generations of Russians have been used—while forced to do without the modern conveniences and luxuries of the West—to bring Russia abreast of the West industrially in a rush. It worked.

There is no visible discontent in Russia. Living standards can be expected to go up continually as industrial-scientific development is expanded to meet more of the people's needs.

In one spot—the political system—Russia is still immensely backward. A comparatively small group of self-appointed leaders — perhaps 10 million out of more than 200 million people—still rule it by force.

Red party control is a little more relaxed than in Stalin's day. In time perhaps it too will undergo a change and become more democratic, permitting wider participation in government for one of two reasons: either through evolutionary change or the demands and pressures of the people as they become increasingly more educated and questioning.

No government remains fixed and frozen forever. History belies that thought.

On one thing the Red bosses of 1917 were wrong: they thought their world revolution was just around the corner. Disappointed in that, but aggressively crusading, they set out to bring about what didn't happen by itself.

In 40 years—by force and never by persuasion or open and free elections — communism has grabbed all of Eastern Europe, all of China, half of Viet Nam, and North Korea. Its influence is spreading in Asia and the Middle East.

The peoples of the European satellites have shown vast discontent with their Russian masters. That does not mean communism will not spread without the use of Russian armies.

As the years pass, and Russians live better, they will probably move more toward capitalism. And the Western powers, to offset the gains of communism, may be forced to move more toward socialism.

LAWRENCE LANGNER, absent-minded impressario, boarded a taxi in New York City and announced, "I've only 20 minutes to catch my train. Please get me to Grand Central as quickly as you can." He then opened his evening paper. Fifteen minutes and ten pages later, he looked up for the first time and discovered there was no driver in the cab.

World's Largest Log Cabin Has 150,000 Annual Visitors

By ELLIS LUCIA
Central Press Association
Correspondent

PORTLAND, Ore.—The world's largest log cabin, a gigantic Parthanon of the forest, still packs 'em in, even after half a century.

Portland's Forestry building is so massive that Abe Lincoln's cabin would resemble a doghouse beside it. The huge structure is the lone survivor of the 1905 Lewis and Clark fair, and was one of the major attractions. The fair hailed the 100th anniversary of the Lewis and Clark expedition, the first Americans ever to lay eyes on the whopping timber of the Pacific Northwest.

Fifty-two years later people still come from far away places to view this awesome temple the loggers built. Over 150,000 persons were dwarfed by the building this past year.

This dreamhouse for termites towers 72 feet above the ground and represents 1,200,000 board feet of lumber. Some 300 fine Douglas firs were hand-cut carefully for the building. They bear no choker marks, for they were handled with tender, loving care by brawny, old-time loggers. For the lumberjacks, it was a labor of love.

* * *

THE BEST TREES in the region were floated to a special chute where a 112-horsepower donkey and gin pole hoisted them into place. The loggers hewed and bitted the timbers with axe and adze. Hardly a nail was used.

Fifty-two perfect firs, six feet at the base and five feet at the top, march the length of the 102x206-foot structure, soaring 54 feet to the rafters. The main pillars alone contain 8,500 board feet, enough for a five-room house. Largest of the columns weighs 35 tons, about that of a loaded railroad car. The rustic building originally was covered with 30,000 hand-cut shakes and now by 1,400,000 cedar shingles.

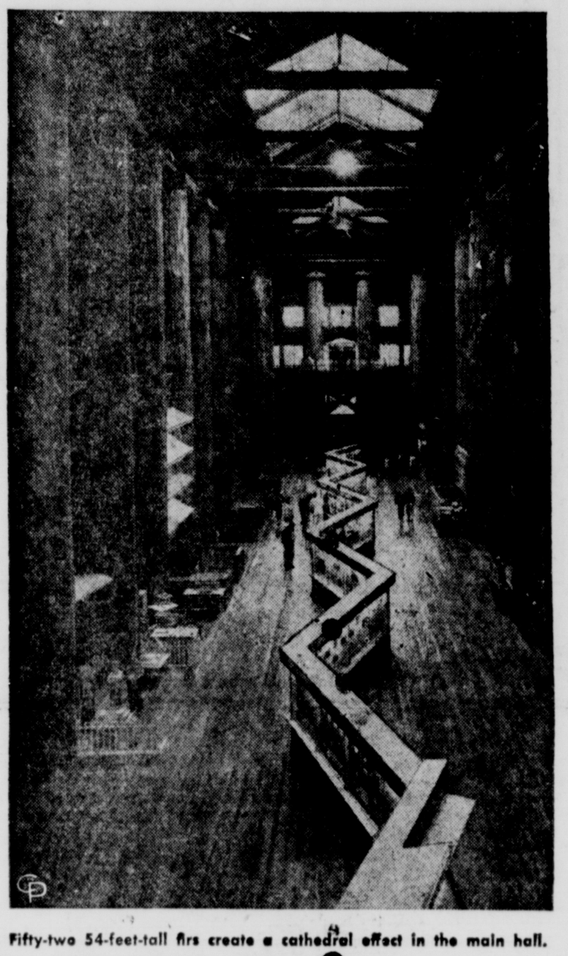

In the great central hall, visitors are stumbled speechless by the building's magnitude. It gives the impression of the forest primeval or one of the great cathedrals of Europe. Timbers like these no longer exist in numbers. Some awe-struck viewers question that they are real.

A forest and all its products are gathered here. Extensive, fascinating exhibits detail the story of lumber. Theres a slice of a 9-foot (diameter) Douglas fir log, 575 years old and growing on the Oregon coast a century before Columbus. By push-button you can operate a modern, miniature sawmill. Outside, there's a growing collection of old-time, heavy logging equipment.

At one end of the hall, you can climb a forest lookout tower and take fire readings with a finder on a panorama of the Cascade mountains.

The original building cost $30,165, of which $14,000 was for log placement. That was less than $50 a log. When nine logs needed replacing a few years ago, the bill came to $5,000 or over $500 per log. That gives some indication what the structure would cost today.

Built to last only 25 years, the great temple of the lumberjacks has withstood time and termites. It will last at least another 20 years, say experts. That in itself is a crowning achievement for the iron men of the timber.

Fifty-two 54-feet-tall firs create a cathedral effect in the main hall.

WHAT'S SO FUNNY?—Sandra, the orang-utan at the Bronx Zoo, in New York, bursts into a peal of laughter on seeing her old friend, the photographer, snap her picture. 'Modest' Riot At Lima Hospital Probed by Patrol

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—The State Highway Patrol is still investigating an escape attempt at Lima State Hospital. But Dr. Henry Luidens, superintendent, says the whole thing was over quickly and, as far as he knoews, no disciplinary action will be taken against any of the inmates involved.

The escape attempt was made Tuesday night, Dr. Luidens said, when an inmate became irritated because the TV set in his ward was turned off a half-hour early.

He tried to talk the other inmates into pulling a mass escape, but only a handful of the 40 in the ward paid any attention, Dr. Luidens said. They were enough to start a "modest" riot, the superintendent conceded but 15 guards were summoned immediately and the uprising was quieted within 15 minutes.

A ward attendant turned the TV set off when the picture became too fuzzy to see, Dr. Luidens said.

District Judges Council OAGC Meets in Circleville

Floyd Bartley Guest Speaker

Fifteen States Accredited Flower Show Judges, Ohio Assn. of Garden Clubs from District 8 and 9, attended the luncheon meeting, Pickaway Arms, Tuesday at 1 p. m. Mrs. Donald H. Watt served as hostess chairman for November.

Mrs. Wade Cozad, president, conducted the business session and announced the following schedules and holiday shows of local interest, Nov. 15 Regional nine, all-day meeting at Pickerington; Baltimore, Basil evening meeting, Nov. 18th; Licking County Council's Christmas Show, Nov. 19, Newark; Wellsley alumnae tour of Columbus homes filled with holiday arrangements, Dec. 3; Farifield Garden Club tour of homes, in Lancaster, Dec. 4; Solaqua Garden Club, Ashville, all-day meeting with Mrs. James Jackson; Ewington, demonstrating Christmas arrangements on Dec. 6, and Deercreek Garden Club all-day schedule for Dec. 10, Mrs. Walter Hughes displaying holiday ideas and materials.

Mrs. Glenn L. Smith, Washington C. H., program chairman, presented year books to Council members. The theme of study will cover design and color in arranging and horticulture recognition by leaf and name.

Floyd Bartley, local botanist, who is highly skilled in the knowledge of plants spoke on "Native Woodland Material in Design."

Numerous specimens of lichens, ferns and mosses were labeled for study with a discussion of each specimen. "The earliest known plants were lichens and they prepared the soil for other plants." Bartley named and said that The Rock Tripe, Asiatic explorers, Lapland and Swedish people lived on this lichen and even made bread from it; British Soldier, which has a red cap and Parmelia, the cushion type which is very hard to collect as it lives on rocks.

Bartley told his audience that Ohio has 333 known mosses, all but two are found in Pickaway County.

Many of Bartley's mosses were in full bloom or in fruit. "A perfect day to study mosses, ferns and lichens in Native habitat," he said, "is a rainy, cool day, which brightened these tiny unobserved plants."

Bartley said that "our local peatbogs are made of Sphagrum moss. On the subject of ferns Bartley said "There are 65 species of ferns in Ohio and over 6000 in the world. Bartley gave recently over 3000 specimens of ferns to Ohio University from his private collection.

His materials were given to the judges for their holiday shows.

He recommended Dr. A. J. Gout, 10 volumns on Mosses or Handlens' book on Mosses which covers over 100 varieties. Bartley's talk and display will highlight the judges entire year's program.

Mrs. Hughes led the constructive criticism of each Thanksgiving arrangement.

Mrs. Hiser's arrangement was in copper tones. She used a copper teapot on a copper tray. Lobeapples served as a focal point combined with bronze-gold chrysanthemum, fire thorn orange berries, green Magnolia leaves, Scotch pine and the brown cones. Her loveapple of brilliant orange were individually covered with a light tan nylon hoes to soften the color.

Mrs. Henry Young, Columbus, featured in her dining table arrangement light yellow to orange tone Chrysanthemums, yellow and green gourds, red popcorn then combined black berries and copper foliage. This was placed on a tan mat.

Mrs. Edward Ray, Lancaster displayed a Styrofoam Christmas tree filled with many types of seeds and pods. All material used to form and placed on a candle base.

Mrs. Evan Jones, Columbus, will be hostess to the judges Council, Dec. 3rd. Christmas design will be presented by five of the judges.

All members of the Pickaway Plains Chapter of Daughters of the the American Revolution will display the American Flag on Armistice Day according to Miss Marie Hamilton, regent. Miss Hamilton is urging other Circleville citizens to display the flag on this day which is she says "one of the most important days in the history of the nation."

The chapter will be the guest of the Governor Worthington Chapter in Logan this Friday. The meeting will be at the Westminster House in that city.

Mrs. C. E. Wright, 129½ E. Mound St. will entertain the local DARs at her home Nov. 19. A board meeting at 7 p. m. will precede the meeting scheduled for 7:30 p. m.

Musical 'South Pacific' Is Filmed Near Honolulu

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Association
Correspondent

KAUAI, Territory of Hawaii — Well—"South Pacific" finally arrived in the South Pacific — well, not really in the South Pacific, but here in Hauai, in the Hawaiian islands.

We are 100 miles north of Honolulu, but it photographs like paradise for the cameras lensing this epic. Hollywood's set designers never whipped up anything like this, we are sure, as we arrive at the lush "Garden isle."

It was back on April 7, 1949, when the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical bowed on Broadway and was an immediate blockbuster. It ran for 1,925 consecutive performances in Big Town and won the Pulitzer prize.

In addition, the national company played 40 states, Canada and London, and summer stockers played it from coast to coast. It's probably one of the few things the Russians do not claim to have invented!

Over 20 million people have seen it "live" and now, a studio is investing close to seven million bucks to bring it to the nation' screens! However, we're not complaining, they sent us here to look at the proceedings!

* * *

EVEN THE U. S. Marines and Navy are "covering" the filming, or being "covered" for it. Hawaii's Kaneohe Marine Second Battalion, Fourth Marine Regiment, continued its war games, "Operation Tradewinds," for the Beverly Hills film men.

The boys "attacked" the beachheads with all the gusto of war—or a screen test. Many men were nursing bruises next day!

Brig. Gen. Avery R. Kier was pleased with the operation, from a tactical, not Technicolor, point of view, of course. He spotted several bugs in the plans while the boys attacked for the film cameras.

The stars of the film, Rossano Brazzi and Mitzi Gaynor, are taking over roles in the film version which were nearly immortalized on stage by the late, great Ezio Pinza, and Mary Martin, who is still touring with the show.

Brazzi, although a close friend of Pinza's, had never seen the show until two days before leaving for Kauai. He had been in Pinza's home the evening Rodgers and Hammerstein paged him for the show.

Brazzi tell us he'll virtually retire from movie-making after this film, unless he can find directors of Joshua Logan's caliber and stories to match "South Pacific." Any suggestions?

Mitzi Gaynor was so petrified on the first day's filming, she nearly ran off the set. And she had been plotting to get the role for over two years! It's not easy to try and fill Mary Martin's shoes.

To make sure Gaynor took the biggest hurdle first, Director Logan decided her first scenes would be Martin's famous number, "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outta My Hair." Gaynor was ready to washout herself, when he uttered those fateful words: "Ready—action!" But for $100,000, she did it. P. S. She would have taken a lot smaller salary for this role! Doris Day, Audrey Hepburn are just two of the top stars who were dying to play this role! They even thought they had it!

* * *

LOGAN TOLD us, "We wanted Mitzi all along. She IS "Nellie Forbush."

We suspect that Miss Martin wanted to play the film role, too. However, one must be diplomatic in telling that the camera would reveal Miss Martin as no longer able to portray an ensign.

Miss Gaynor, like Brazzi, will go into temporary retirement after "South Pacific." As a matter of fact, Logan has already recommended a round-the-world cruise for her! He will direct a play for which he is already committed, then also take off for an extended "vacation."

It seems like everyone will be ready for a rest when this mammoth effort is completed!

We traveled the 3,400 miles miles from Hollywood to this location and now must arise at 5 a. m. in order to travel to each day's location site which is at least 30 miles from headquarters at the Coco Palms hotel.

However, the scenery cannot be reproduced — or the local color. The outriggers, the war canoes—oh, ecuse it, they were built in Hollywood and shipped over!

However, the palm trees, the magnificent palm trees. Yup, you guessed it. Despite the fact they grow in great profusion over here, they don't always grow in the "right places," where the cameras want 'em. So, the studio fabricated magnificent plastic palms, shipped them out and the huge cranes set them up wherever wanted.

You'll never know the difference, though — it looks just like "South Pacific."

Central Press' Armand Archerd Interviews Mitzi Gaynor just before famed shower sequence is shot.

DANCER SLAIN—Police in Medford, Mass., are searching for the "other man" of an alleged love triangle that resulted in the shotgun slaying of night-club dancer Adeltraud (Trudy) Walker (above). Police said her husband, William, 35, "confessed" the shooting. He was found wounded and taken in serious condition to the hospital. Walker also said his wife had told him she loved another man. (International)

2 Men Captured In Florida Tied To Ohio Robbery

MIAMP, Fla. (AP)—Two of three men accused of robbing about $27,000 from the Bank of Andover, Ohio, Oct. 25, have been taken into custody here by the FBI.

Special Agent Scott Alden Wednesday reported the arrest of Charles M. Bradbury, 24, and Karl L. Kellerman, 20. Both lived in Painesville, Ohio, before arriving here Oct. 31. Alden said Bradbury was arrested at a house the pair rented, and Kellerman at a restaurant. Both have criminal records, the FBI agent said.

Still at large is Paul R. Pritt, 21, the third man accused in the robbery. Alden said about $6,000 of the stolen money has been recovered.

Bradbury, a native of Lynn, Mass.; and Kellerman, a native of Pittsburgh, will be arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Roger Davis here.

Workman Is Crushed

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Michael Ruman, 60, was crushed to death Wednesday when a 600-pound piece of metal on which he was working fell on him.

Gary, Ind., once had a law which made it illegal to board a street car for four hours after eating garlic.

2 Changes in Constitution Due To Be Effective Soon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two changes in Ohio's constitution will become official about mid-November when Secretary of State Ted W. Brown certifies Tuesday's election results.

Voters approved those amendments, but rejected a third proposal placed on ballots by the last Legislature.

Further legislative action in the 1959 session is called for by voter approval of the amendment to permit Ohio residents of less than a year to vote for President and Vice President.

The General Assembly expects to set ground rules for such voting before the 1960 presidential election. Without general laws for the method of operation, the amendment would be ineffective, Brown explained.

He said the Legislature presumably would fix a period considerably shorter than the present one-year residence requirement to be eligible to vote for presidential electors.

Lawmakers also may provide for those moving to another state during quadrennial election years to vote for President and Vice President in Ohio, if they are ineligible to vote in their new homes, Brown added.

He said thousands lose their right to vote in presidential election years by moving. Many can't vote in the state they leave and Ohio's one-year residence requirement up to now has prevented them from voting here. Brown said that situation prompted him to plug for the change.

Observers expected Cuyahoga County to take the lead in seeking to change the form of its government under a simplified process made available by the other approved constitutional amendment.

Voters in that county made the biggest contribution to the 32,761 statewide margin for adoption of the amendment making it easier for counties of more than 500,000 population to approve county charter governments. Cuyahoga, Franklin and Hamilton are the only counties with more than a half-million population.

And amendment deletes a fourth step blamed for preventing adoption of a countywide city government. This type government has been advocated as an answer to service problems in rapidly growing and already populous areas.

Steps necessary to win "exclusive" municipal rights for a countywide government in the "Big Three" under the revised constitution require majority approval of voters in the entire county, the largest city and the county outside the largest city.

The four-step approval process remains unchanged for "exclusive" charters in counties below the 500,000 population mark. The fourth step, in addition to the other three, requires approval by a majority of voters "in each of a majority of the combined total of municipalities and townships in the county."

Twenty-one of Ohio's 88 counties returned favorable majorities for the county charter amendment but Cuyahoga County's 40,000 edge turned the tide that was adverse downstate.

Besides Cuyahoga, other populous counties supporting the amendment are Franklin, Hamilton, Summit, Mahoning, Montgomery and Lucas. Summit County's margin is 16,600. It is 13,800 in Lucas County and 11,000 in Hamilton County. Franklin County's margin of 1,600 is smallest in the major group. Stark alone of the major counties disapproves.

Smaller counties with thin margins of approval are Erie, Geauga, Lake, Miami, Ottawa, Richland, Ross, Allen, Fulton, Greene, Ashtabula, Jefferson, Medina, Wayne and Wood.

A third amendment proposal, to eliminate the one-year residence requirement for appointees to nonelective public office, met solid defeat. Not a county favors the proposal. It is backed by Gov. C. William O'Neill. Some observers regard the result as a test of gubernatorial sentiment.

O'Neill backed the amendment because the residence requirement made it difficult for him to hire outside experts for Cabinet posts.

As a result, he made Charles M. Noble, former New Jersey Turnpike engineer, his secretary in charge of highways at $30,000 a year. Noble will be eligible for appointment as state highway director in mid-January. He could have been named director officially after certification of the vote this month if the amendment had carried.

Other prospects turned down offers of Ohio appointments because of the residence restriction. It appears well entrenched as a result of Tuesday's voting.

2 Changes in Constitution Due To Be Effective Soon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two changes in Ohio's constitution will become official about mid-November when Secretary of State Ted W. Brown certifies Tuesday's election results.

Voters approved those amendments, but rejected a third proposal placed on ballots by the last Legislature.

Further legislative action in the 1959 session is called for by voter approval of the amendment to permit Ohio residents of less than a year to vote for President and Vice President.

The General Assembly expects to set ground rules for such voting before the 1960 presidential election. Without general laws for the method of operation, the amendment would be ineffective, Brown explained.

He said the Legislature presumably would fix a period considerably shorter than the present one-year residence requirement to be eligible to vote for presidential electors.

Lawmakers also may provide for those moving to another state during quadrennial election years to vote for President and Vice President in Ohio, if they are ineligible to vote in their new homes, Brown added.

He said thousands lose their right to vote in presidential election years by moving. Many can't vote in the state they leave and Ohio's one-year residence requirement up to now has prevented them from voting here. Brown said that situation prompted him to plug for the change.

Observers expected Cuyahoga County to take the lead in seeking to change the form of its government under a simplified process made available by the other approved constitutional amendment.

Voters in that county made the biggest contribution to the 32,761 statewide margin for adoption of the amendment making it easier for counties of more than 500,000 population to approve county charter governments. Cuyahoga, Franklin and Hamilton are the only counties with more than a half-million population.

And amendment deletes a fourth step blamed for preventing adoption of a countywide city government. This type government has been advocated as an answer to service problems in rapidly growing and already populous areas.

Steps necessary to win "exclusive" municipal rights for a countywide government in the "Big Three" under the revised constitution requires majority approval of voters in the entire county, the largest city and the county outside the largest city.

The four-step approval process remains unchanged for "exclusive" charters in counties below the 500,000 population mark. The fourth step, in addition to the other three, requires approval by a majority of voters "in each of a majority of the combined total of municipalities and townships in the county."

Twenty-one of Ohio's 88 counties returned favorable majorities for the county charter amendment but Cuyahoga County's 40,000 edge turned the tide that was adverse downstate.

Besides Cuyahoga, other populous counties supporting the amendment are Franklin, Hamilton, Summit, Mahoning, Montgomery and Lucas. Summit County's margin is 16,600. It is 13,800 in Lucas County and 11,000 in Hamilton County. Franklin County's margin of 1,600 is smallest in the major group. Stark alone of the major counties disapproves.

Smaller counties with thin margins of approval are Erie, Geauga, Lake, Miami, Ottawa, Richland, Ross, Allen, Fulton, Greene, Ashtabula, Jefferson, Medina, Wayne and Wood.

'Dumb' Dinosaurs Dominated Earth for 130 Million Years

By H. D. CRAWFORD
Central Press Association
Correspondent

WASHINGTON — "Lack of brains" coincidentally linked two events recently in Washington, providing a common tie between Man and the dinosaur. Two United States senators poured verbal heat into the chamber about "lack of brains" in high places of government.

The Smithsonian Institution, about the same time, issued a study showing that the dinosaur, a creature with a "diminutive sized brain," had dominated the earth for 130 million years—just a little more than 129 million years longer than Man and his immediate ancestors have been around!

The tantalizing question left unanswered by both senators and the Smithsonian scientists was this: Did the dinosaurs dominate the earth so long despite their lack of brains or because of it?

Big dinosaurs with small brain capacity, unlike little Man with his big brain, weren't able to devise H-bombs, intercontinental missiles, speedy automobiles and airplanes, and other death-dealing gadgets in all those 130 million years.

* * *

NO LIVING dinosaur has ever been seen by a human being, according to the Smithsonian study. "All were extinct when Man made his appearance among the inhabitants of the earth less than a million years ago."

Dinosaurs started leaving evidence of their existence — their bones, teeth and tracks—about 200 million years ago, scientists believe. Then after roaming on every continent for some 130 million years, dinosaurs disappeared.

Scientists don't know just why the dinosaurs vanished. The Smithsonian study, however, offers this significant conclusion, which might serve as a warning to Youthful Man:

"The complete disappearance and extinction of dinosaurs have never been entirely explained. However, throughout the earth's history, great changes in its surface have taken place, caused by the upheaval of mountains and the enlargement of continents and by the destructive tearing down of these by the myriad factors of erosion.

"Life must adapt itself to the consequent variations in climate, food supply, and other environmental conditions. When it cannot, that life vanishes. Such, scientists suppose, was the fate of the dinosaurs."

Scientists during the last century have discovered many dinosaur traits. Many skeletons have been found. Visitors often find reconstructed skeletons and restored dinosaurs among the most intriguing displays in natural history museums.

* * *

THESE VISITORS usually do not realize, however, the tremendous amounts of time, skill and patience consumed in one of these prehistoric displays. For example, one of the Smithsonian's specimens excavated in Dinosaur National monument in Utah was painstakingly freighted by horse and wagon to a railroad station, then shipped to Washington. Five men spent, in all, about seven years reconstructing this one skeleton for exhibition.

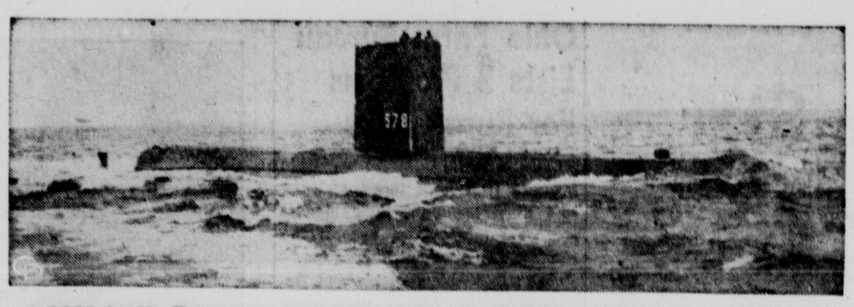

A century of dinosaur study has disclosed that the dinosaur, which means "terrible lizard," varied greatly in species, size, appearance and living habits. Some were no larger than chickens. Others whose skeletons have been found were more than 80 feet long, 20 feet tall, and weighed an estimated 50 tons.

Dinosaurs were the largest land animals ever to inhabit the earth. Study of bones, teeth, footprints and skin impressions in rock has revealed that some dinosaurs were vegetarians. Others were flesh-eaters. Many of them walked upright on their hind legs. Others walked on all four legs. Some even developed wings and flew.

In 129 million more years some creature with brains enough to be interested may dig the earth's surface to learn whether Man with his big brain was able to match that 130-million-year, earth dominating marathon of the diminutive-brained dinosaur.

Judge Tells Hoffa Prepare for Trial

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge has advised James R. Hoffa to be ready for trial on perjury charges next Wednesday. Hoffa also lost his move for dismissal of perjury and wiretap conspiracy charges.

Hoffa, president - elect of the Teamsters Union, has been barred from taking office by court order.

Federal Dist. Judge Frederick van Pelt Bryan reserved decision on a defense motion for an "indefinite or substantial postponement" of the perjury trial, but told Hoffa "not to count on" it.

CLEVELAND (AP) — William R. Gerdon, 49, who on his seventh term as mayor of Cuyahoga Heights Tuesday was tossed into Cleveland jail Wednesday on an intoxication charge.

A waitress at a downtown restaurant said the mayor "was a perfect gentleman" when he came in and ordered waffles.

But he kept falling asleep "and I was afraid he would fall off the stool and hurt himself," she said, so she called the police.

Gerdon was found guilty by Municipal Judge James T. Cassidy, who suspended costs and permitted the mayor to go home.

Man, Boy, and Fish Star in Movie of Hemingway Story

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Association
Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — One of today's super - special, multi-million-dollar movie epics does not feature "a cast of thousands." On the contrary, the cast consists of one man, one boy and one fish.

It is, of course, the sea-extravaganza, "Old Man and the Sea," which went before the cameras in early 1956, is winding up on the sound stages only this autumn, and will finally be released in 1958.

No make-up man can take credit for Spencer Tracy's weather-beaten look. He's earned it—mostly on this film, in the past year! Tracy, looking as tan as the Cuban fisherman he portrays, and snow-thatched, returned from the last location in Hawaii, and happily plunged into a million gallons of Warnercolor water for the film's last stand before the cameras!

Tracy and the film troupe had shagged all over the waters off Cuba, the Bahamas, Peru, Panama and the Galapagos, before heading to Hawaii. Finally, they arrived back in Hollywood, at the studio lot—and it never looked so good to the company.

* * *

THERE, a man-made ocean was created on Stage 7, which is spread over an acre. The depth of the "ocean" varied from four to 30 feet. And the special effects boys dyed it a beautiful blue to match the Caribbean and Pacific waters, already captured on film!

They used the same dye used for candy! It was no easy job for them to figure out how to give it the phosphorescent glow seen at sea at night.

We've seen some sets in Hollywood, but this one takes the (liquid) cake. The lights (32,000 amps.) were sufficient to handle a town of 15,000 population! It seemed like every light bulb in Hollywood must have been borrowed for this set!

After the many months in Cuba, Tracy was mighty happy to be within the shelter of the stage, where he stepped from his plush dressing room into the scene.

Here, the winds were controllable, the water temperature adjustable, no sun or rain to beat down unmercifully. However, even away from the ravages of nature, Tracy found troubles!

The glare of the 2,300-candle-power lamps, which simulated the mid-day tropical sun, burned his eyes and he was literally out of the spotlight for an added delay of a week, and under the care of an eye doctor.

* * *

THE SEA, weather and sharks were cooperative in Hawaii, Tracy told us, and everyone returned contented. Not so in Cuba, however. There, the elements, and everything under, as we'l as on the sea, joined forces to make every day a battle!

However, Tracy says the underwater shark footage which a second unit photographed is classic. It shows up to 50 blood-thirsty sharks savagely attacking and completely destroying, devouring, chunk by chunk, a giant marlin which is tied to the side of Tracy's boat. This footage, Tracy told us, will raise us right off our theater seats!

One of the few breaks on the five-million-dollar film is the fact Felipe Pazos, 12-year-old Cuban boy who was chosen in 1956 and worked in last year's footage, didn't grow an inch, or change in appearance during the lengthy shooting!

Although no one will notice, there's an actor in the background of "Old Man and the Sea" who is responsible for the Ernest Hemingway novel, which won him the Nobel and Pulitzer prizes.

He is Santiago Puig, seen in a group of the Cuban fishermen. He is a Cuban fisherman—and it was his father who "fished alone in a skiff in the Gulf stream and he was gone 84 days now without taking a fish."

The story of the old man and his eventual titanic struggle with the monster marlin was told to Hemingway, who in turn novelized it.

Nobody, not even Jack Warner, is happier than Tracy that the film is, like the marlin, reeled in.

"As a man," he laughed, "I love the sea—but as an actor, I prefer my fishing on a stage where the director can yell 'CUT'!"

Spencer Tracy as the "Old Man," Felipe Pazos as "Boy."

HAPPY HOSTESS — Mrs. Kathy Grant Crosby, 23, recent bride of crooner Bing Crosby, 53, is shown as hostess at a small "at home" party in their Hollywood, Calif., home. After honeymoon seclusion, the newlyweds prepared to leave for Spokane, Wash., to take part in the dedication of a Crosby library at Gonzaga University, his alma mater. (International)

Ohio Farm Bureau Lists 2 Problems For Rural Folks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio farmers find high taxes and the cost of government their biggest problems these days, reports the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

The Federation's Policy and Development Committee Wednesday made public a review of 4,601 suggestions recieved from 967 of 1,534 Farm Bureau advisory councils by the end of October. The review showed that 688 groups are asking their county organizations to take a position on some phase of the tax problem.

The remaining top 10 issues troubling farmers are: Safety, trash dumping, titling of farm machinery, farm income, Eastern Standard Time throughout the state, better telephone service, opposition to reapportionment, mail service, and schools.

Clergyman's Visit To Sick Evaluated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Washington, D. C. chaplain told the third annual Mental Hygiene Institute for Seventh-Day Adventist ministers that a clergyman's visit at the sick bed is much more than a social call.

Chaplain Kenneth S. Crofoot, speaking at the opening of the two-day conference Wednesday, said: "The real reason for a pastor to call on an individual who is ill is not because of curiosity, duty or a desire not to offend, but because his training, experience and position places him where he can be a real help in the recovery of the patient."

COMMANDER Michael Parker (above), former secretary to the Duke of Edinburgh, husband of Britain's Queen Elizabeth, faces a divorce suit filed by his wife Eileen (left) which accuses him of adultery. The suit names a Mrs. Mary Thompson. Parker, 36, accompanied the Duke on a round-the-world trip, and they have been more or less pals. But Parker had to resign the secretaryship when his wife left him last February, because of court restrictions against divorce and the like. Palace authorities are concerned lest Parker defend the suit, which would mean introduction of evidence which might embarrass Buckingham Palace. (International)

Bearded Gunman Sought by Police

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Ohio and West Virginia law officers pressed their search today for a bearded gunman who reportedly robbed $1,251 in cash and checks from an employe of a Huntington clothing store.

The employe, Carl Cassady, 25-year-old assistant manager, told police he was driving to the bank Wednesday when the gunman popped up in the back seat of the car. Cassady said the robber ordered him to drive over the Ohio River into Ohio.

Cassady said the stranger, a middle-aged man with a beard, took $935 in cash and $316 in checks and let him out near Burlington, Ohio.

Dr. Increase Mathews of Zanesville brought the first vaccination to Ohio when he vaccinated the citizens of Putnam and Zanesville during a smallpox epidemic.

Roz Russell To Quit Play

2 Years with Show Said To Be Enough

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the great marriages of American entertainment—Rosalind Russell and an auntie named Mame—could go on forever. But Roz is holding it down to two years.

"Auntie Mame" has been a top ticket on Broadway ever since it opened a year ago. Miss Russell is bowing out of the New York run in just 11 weeks though she could remain as long as she wanted.

Her reasoning: "It's a tremendously exhausting show. By the time we finish the movie next June, it will be almost two years that I have been working with Mame. In August of 1956 we first started working with the script.

"It has been a wonderful experience, but good heavens—how long can you continue playing one character?"

As long as she wants, say the ticket agents. But Roz has other ideas. She has never been one for standing still. She played an endless procession of professional women in films.

She broke out to come back to Broadway in a musical, "Wonderful Town." Her latest film, "Picnic," portrayed her as a love-starved, man-roping school teacher.

On St. Patrick's Day next year, she'll begin the film version of "Mame" for Warner Brothers. Then she and husband Fred Brisson will head for a lengthy vacation to Europe.

Roz Russell To Quit Play

2 Years with Show Said To Be Enough

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the great marriages of American entertainment—Rosalind Russell and an auntie named Mame—could go on forever. But Roz is holding it down to two years.

"Auntie Mame" has been a top ticket on Broadway ever since it opened a year ago. Miss Russell is bowing out of the New York run in just 11 weeks though she could remain as long as she wanted.

Her reasoning: "It's a tremendously exhausting show. By the time we finish the movie next June, it will be almost two years that I have been working with Mame. In August of 1956 we first started working with the script.

"It has been a wonderful experience, but good heavens—how long can you continue playing one character?"

As long as she wants, say the ticket agents. But Roz has other ideas. She has never been one for standing still. She played an endless procession of professional women in films.

She broke out to come back to Broadway in a musical, "Wonderful Town." Her latest film, "Picnic," portrayed her as a love-starved, man-roping school teacher.

On St. Patrick's Day next year, she'll begin the film version of "Mame" for Warner Brothers. Then she and husband Fred Brisson will head for a lengthy vacation to Europe.

U.S. Scientific Spending Hits $10 Billion

Yearly Outlay Average Expected To Rocket As Result of Sputnik

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The U. S. government and industry today are spending at a 10 billion dollar a year clip for scientific research and development.

And Sputnik seems likely to inspire a rocket like climb in that figure next year, especially in the government's share, which is now about one third.

President Eisenhower will speak to the nation tonight on the role of science and research in national security.

The government is doing more than half of the spending on basic research—the pure science from which Sputnik was developed as the most publicized result of the present International Geophysical Year, a cooperative venture into pure science.

Warnings some time back that the Russians were pulling ahead in pure science research brought a reply from some quarters that the question was whether America's scientific security race with the Soviets was a marathon or a sprint.

Industry is putting some 4 to 6 per cent of its 7 billion dollars a year spending into basic science studies. For example, the University of Chicago gets about 1½ million dollars a year from corporations for basic research problems and is conducting some 1,000 of them in 500 laboratories. The bulk of industrial spending goes for applied research and product development.

Here government and private researchers often benefit jointly. For example, early studies in commercial aircraft helped develop military craft, while the upcoming commercial jet airliners owe much to government research that produced the jet military bombers and transports.

Some government officials estimate that only 5 to 10 per cent of total government research spending of more than 3 billion dollars a year is for basic science.

But the National Science Foundation says that the Defense Department finds basic science hard to define. The foundation divides total government research spending into 60 per cent on development—from missiles to livestock feed—and 40 per cent on basic science and application of it to specific objectives.

The Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission spend 85 per cent of the federal research dollar.

The war gave research its big boost. Before World War II, federal and private spending was at a 1 billion dollars a year pace, compared with today's 10 billion.

Studies of industrial spending in 1953 by the BLS and the National Science Foundation put spending at 3¾ billion dollars, with the government aiding these private projects to the tune of nearly 1¼ billion in grants.

The electrical equipment industry topped the list with 778 million dollars for research and development, while the aircraft and parts industry spent 758 million. Chemicals were third with 331 million.

Breaking down the costs to industry as a percentage of its sales, the survey showed aircraft firms putting 9 cents of their sales dollar into research, electrical equipment 6 cents of each dollar, and professional and scientific instrument firms 4¾ cents.

Today's highly complicated military and civilian products doubtless call for much more expensive research. And remember there's often a time lag of seven years before the start of research and the large scale production of the resultant product.

Weeky Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Looking for a bargain in the meat department for this weekend?

Chances are you'll find beef, pork and chicken on sale at special prices in your favorite supermarket or neighborhood food store.

Steaks and rib roasts are more frequently offered than hamburger and chuck, however. Meat men say that's because the number of grain-fed animals, which produce higher grade beef, is expected to hold at last year's level.

Pork supplies are increasing, as they do every year at this time, although they are still a bit below 1956. This winter and next spring, though, slaughter will likely be above year-earlier levels, the Agriculture Department says.

As for chickens, they've been more plentiful than last year for some time and the estimate now is that production will top 1956's 1,345,000,000 birds by 6 per cent.

Egg prices are generally lower this week, by as much as six cents a dozen for medium grades. This development, coupled with scattered specials on bacon and sausage, may mean fancier breakfasts in many homes this weekend.

Vegetables still rated by produce men as outstanding buys include cabbage, potatoes, onions and cauliflower.

At fruit counters, Western Delicious apples are making a stronger challenge to Eastern area apples this week as prices head downward and supplies become more abundant. In the same vein, Florida grapefruit and oranges are steadily getting more plentiful.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband and I are in our twenties and very happily married for two and a half years. My problem is my mother-in-law, most likely a trial common to all new wives.

Dave's mother always has considered him a child and treated him as one. And, although we've been married going on three years she still hasn't changed on that score. She refuses to give up the idea that he is her "baby." As you can imagine, this is very annoying to Dave and me.

Once I openly requested Dave's parents to stop treating him as a child. "He's a grown man with a job and a family, so he's hardly a baby." I explained. This provoked an argument from both parents, who claim that I don't love Dave as much as they do, etc. They still want to rule his life, and mine too, now.

I am afraid to open my mouth when Dave's parents are around, for fear of starting a war. They disagree with anything I say, regardless of what it may be. I have received advice from all sides on this problem. How do you suggest that I cope with the situation?

A. T.

DEAR A. T.: The key figure in this drama is Dave himself. It is entirely possible that his parents never will move with the times, nor ever encourage their adult-age son to be a man, in any aspect of his experience where they have influence.

As matters stand, I think we'd have to say that they've settled for a condition of arrested development, insofar as their own growth is concerned. And, because they don't want to face the fact of being middle aged, or "older-age" (as the euphimism is)—with their child rearing history finished — they obstinately struggle to stalemate Dave's growth too. Figuratively they're trying to stop the clock.

Since this is the fixed attitude of Dave's parents—a sort of rigor mortis of mind and soul — you can't do much about it. But Dave can do something to relieve the pressure upon you, if he will.

What he can do is: 1. Treat their mistake with humorous, kindly, though non - committal, courtesy when in their presence, thus "cueing" you to avoid arguing with their obstinacy. 2. At the same time, get ahead with being a man, in the matter of detaching himself from their views, where these views tend to butt into and diminish his relationship to you.

Obviously you are being put on the defensive, unfairly, for trying to encourage Dave to develop true self-reliance and social resourcefulness suited to his age and status in life.

Discretion is the better part of valor, we are told. Thus my advice is: don't speak all your mind in the presence of Dave's parents. "A fool uttereth all his mind"—so Scripture says—"but a wise man keepeth it in until afterwards." Be wise in this sense. Work confidentially in rapport with Dave, and let him do the talking during family visits.

Both you and Dave might garner useful insights and saving perspective from Dr. Edward A. Strecker's book "Their Mother's Sons" (Lippincott), — which x-rays the immature psychology of smother-love parents.

Blow on Head Fatal To Man in Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—A man identified by police as Peter Lake, 55, and with no known address, died Wednesday night from a blow on the head.

Lake apparently was asleep in a stranger's car parked near Public Square. Police said the automobile owner, finding Lake asleep in his car, struck him on the head with a lunch pail.

Lake stumbled across the street and collapsed. The man who struck him drove away and has not been identified.

SANCTUARY JUST AHEAD—Lucy Negron Rodriguez lies dead in New York just outside the church to which she was fleeing to escape a berserk gunman, her husband, Louis. He fired a fatal shot into her back, then killed himself. A police photographer makes a grisly record of the scene, at 13th Street and 7th Avenue. (International Soundphoto)

White House Sees '58 Fight for GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has interpreted Tuesday's election results as demonstrating the GOP and its candidates "have a fight on their hands" in 1958.

It found "real gratification," however, in Republican victories in two special elections for House seats in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary, had a prepared statement ready when reporters asked for reaction to the ballotting Tuesday, in which Democrats ran up big victories in the New Jersey and Virginia gubernatorial races and for mayor of New York. The GOP aspirants in New Jersey and Virginia ran with special White House blessings.

High Court To Hear Fayette School Case

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has agreed to hear further pleadings by Charles A. Fabb and five other property owners in a mandamus action by the Board of Education of Miami Trace local school district, Fayette County.

The board seeks to compel its clerk to certify a $1,652,500 bond issue for improvements to the county auditor.

Blow on Head Fatal To Man in Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—A man identified by police as Peter Lake, 55, and with no known address, died Wednesday night from a blow on the head.

Lake apparently was asleep in a stranger's car parked near Public Square. Police said the automobile owner, finding Lake asleep in his car, struck him on the head with a lunch pail.

Lake stumbled across the street and collapsed. The man who struck him drove away and has not been identified.

SANCTUARY JUST AHEAD—Lucy Negron Rodriguez lies dead in New York just outside the church to which she was fleeing to escape a berserk gunman, her husband, Louis. He fired a fatal shot into her back, then killed himself. A police photographer makes a grisly record of the scene, at 13th Street and 7th Avenue. (International Soundphoto)

White House Sees '58 Fight for GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has interpreted Tuesday's election results as demonstrating the GOP and its candidates "have a fight on their hands" in 1958.

It found "real gratification," however, in Republican victories in two special elections for House seats in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary, had a prepared statement ready when reporters asked for reaction to the ballotting Tuesday, in which Democrats ran up big victories in the New Jersey and Virginia gubernatorial races and for mayor of New York. The GOP aspirants in New Jersey and Virginia ran with special White House blessings.

High Court To Hear Fayette School Case

COLUMBUS (AP)— The Ohio Supreme Court has agreed to hear further pleadings by Charles A. Fabb and five other property owners in a mandamus action by the Board of Education of Miami Trace local school district, Fayette County.

The board seeks to compel its clerk to certify a $1,652,500 bond issue for improvements to the county auditor.

SORE SPOT — Port of Alexandretta, renamed Iskenderun by Turkey, is one sore spot between Turkey and Syria. Syria claims the area—as the Sanjak of Alexandretta — from 400 years ago. No Syrian maps show area as part of Turkey.

Bucks Picked To Top Purdue By 14 to 7

Midwestern Expert Predicts Notre Dame To Lose Second Game

By JERRY LISKA
Midwest AP Sports Editor

CHICAGO (AP)—Sputnik II is a celestial doghouse. The old Midwest grid seer's crystal ball could rapidly become one. It gets the heave ho if this isn't the real lowdown:

Ohio State 14, Purdue 7—Ohio State's exact caliber isn't easy to peg. However, the Buckeyes whipped Illinois 21-7 and Wisconsin 16-13, while Purdue conquered Illinois 21-6 and lost to the Badgers 23-14. This regionally televised game could be closer than the next minute. Purdue may have the defensive edge, but Don Clark's running and a little splurge in passing could do it for the Bucks.

Iowa 13, Minnesota 7 — Like Ohio State, Iowa extends its Big Ten title bid only a one touchdown favorite. Although the Hawkeye-Gopher rivalry is a rousing one, we like Iowa's speed and its best-in-the-nation defense against rushing. The Gophers have been getting good results from reserve quarterback Jim Reese. Passes annoy the little Hawkeye secondary and Reese is probably Minnesota's best tosser.

Michigan State 28, Notre Dame 13—Navy was the best team Notre Dame faced in its first five games and the Irish suffered a 20-6 broadside from the Middies. MSU's Spartans carry more guns than Navy. The Irish secondary will be busy chasing Walt Kowalczyk and Blance Martin and Jim Ninowski's passing will give them grief. It's hard for Terry Brennan to point for Michigan State with Oklahoma and Iowa following right behind on the Irish card.

Michigan 19, Illinois 13—Wolverine fullback Johnny Herrnstein returns for at least part-time duty. The Illini reportedly are aching after scoring a statistical triumph, but actual 21-6 defeat against Purdue. Michigan is able to platoon quarterbacks Jim Van Pelt and Stan Noskin, but the Illini have a good thrower, too, in unheralded Tom Haller.

Wisconsin 21, Northwestern 7—The Wildcats, crippled as they are, aren't as bad as their winless record indicates. However, the invading Badgers have too much speed and balance to be taken. Wisconsin held Ohio State to a 16-13 triumph. The Buckeyes blasted Northwestern, 47-6. Only a blizzard can make this an even game.

Indiana 14, Cincinnati 7—Leaving the Big Ten jungle, the mauled Hoosiers can do a little preying of their own. It will be touch-and-go, though.

Penn State 28, Marquette 7—Another long Saturday for the Warriors.

(Last week's record: 4 right, 2 wrong, 1 tie. Season: 36-10-1. Average .783)

Top Rookies Are Sanford And Kubeck

NEW YORK (AP)—Versatile Tony Kubek, who wasn't even on the New York Yankees' roster in spring training, and Jack Sanford, a pleasant pitching surprise to the Philadelphia Phils, today were named major league Rookies-of-the-Year for 1957.

Kubek was selected as the American League's outstanding freshman and Sanford captured the National League rookie award.

Kubek was a unanimous choice, receiving 23 votes. Frank Malzone of the Boston Red Sox was named on one ballot. Malzone, however, had been previously declared ineligible since he had 103 official at bats in 1956.

Sanford was named on 16 ballots. Teammate Ed Bouchee, a solid-hitting first baseman, was next with four votes. Pitcher Dick Drott of the Chicago Cubs received three votes and outfielder Bob Hazle of Milwaukee one.

Kubek, 22 last month, is a rangy left-handed swinger who batted .297 in 127 games. The Milwaukee native finished ninth among the league's leading batters and was the third highest hitter on the Yanks.

In the World Series against the Braves, he hit .286 and slugged two homers.

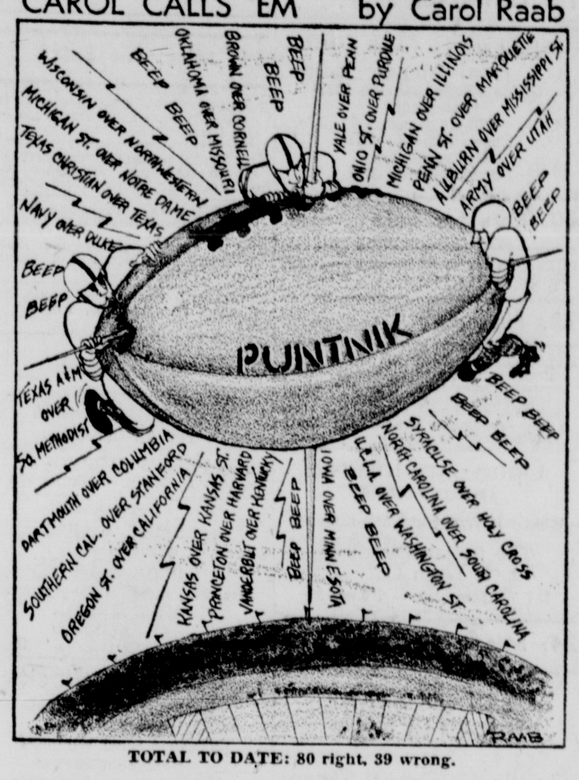

Sanford, a durable 28-year - old right-hander, spent seven years in the minors and two years in the Army before he came into his own in 1957, posting a 19-8 won-lost record for a .704 percentage, second best in the league.

New Indian Chieftain To Be Named Tuesday

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' board of directors will appoint a new general manager when they meet here Tuesday. Among names being mentioned for the post are William O. De Witt and Frank Lane, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Air Force Brands Flying Saucers As Non-Existent

DAYTON (AP)—Air Force officials here and in Washington have categorically branded flying saucers as non-existent.

The Dayton Journal Herald quotes a top official of the Air Technical Intelligence Center as saying that checks of 5,700 reported sightings in the last 10 years failed in every case to offer any evidence of flying saucers.

He said not a single landing impression or footprint of any flying saucer or crew member has ever been found.

The center, located at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, is the Air Force's main filter center for reports of unidentified flying objects.

In Washington, the Air Force issued the same report. It said:

1. There is no physical or material evidence, not even a minute fragment, that a so-called flying saucer was ever found.

* * *

2. THERE IS no evidence that these unknown objects are interplanetary space ships.

3. There is no evidence that they represent any techonological developments outside the range of our everyday scientific knowledge.

4. There is no evidence of unknown hostile objects or of any threat to the security of the country because of them.

The Dayton Journal Herald quoted the officials as saying independent scientists under contract to the Air Force, and not the Air Force itself, determine the validity of the reported sightings.

He said recent reported sightings of unknown flying objects in Texas and Springfield, Ohio, will be explained when the current investigation is completed.

Recent launchings by Russia of Sputnik I and Sputnik II have done much to stimulate sightings, the official said.

The Air Force does not doubt that some people see flying objects they do not recognize, the spokesman said, but he added the objects are rarely what the people think they saw.

This year, the Air Force has investigated 768 reports of flying objects or unidentified flying objects, officials said, and came up with this breakdown:

Balloons, 26.1 per cent; aircraft, 24.6 per cent; astronomical (clouds or meteors) 26.3 per cent; lights or in some cases outright hoaxes, 6.7 percent; objects that could not be checked out because of insufficient data, 14.1 per cent; unknown, 2.2 per cent.

Ohioan in Alcatraz Denies Knife Attack

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Roland Simcox, an Alcatraz convict charged with murdering fellow inmate Edward H. Gauvin, has denied he attacked the victim with a six-inch brass knife.

Taking the witness stand in his own defense Wednesday, the 25-year-old Columbus, Ohio, man said Gauvin forced him into a fight June 6 and "came up with an object—I saw it was a knife."

Simcox told the court that Gauvin had a grudge against him. He said he refused to join Gauvin in a hunger strike while both were in the prison disciplinary area.

There Were Lady Marines Way Back in World War I

Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of five articles on the women's branches of the armed forces.

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Marine Corps was the last of the services to take in women during World War II, but their service in the corps actually began back in World War I when a few hundred enlisted women reserves filled clerical billets.

The Lady Leathernecks now are not only regulars in the corps but the only women in the armed forces to have a separate unit in the organized reserve. The first women's organized reserve platoon was formed in April, 1949. Today there are some 32 officers and 659 enlisted women Marines in the organized reserve.

The regulars on duty currently number about 1,800 enlisted women and 121 officers. They are serving at posts in the United States, Hawaii and Europe. Officers hold jobs as administrators, teachers, and publicists, as supply, finance and communications officers and in other specialized posts. Enlisted women may serve in any of 26 occupational fields, 87 specialties in all.

The Marine Corps Women's Reserve, established in February, 1943, boasted 18,838 members by May, 1945. Congress authorized their permanent status as regulars in 1948.

Most of the women were demobilized at the end of World War II, but a trained nucleus was retained. It proved itself ready for rapid mobilization at the outbreak of fighting in Korea in 1950.

First director of the Women Marines was Col. Ruth Cheney Streeter, wife of a retired Morristown, N. J., banker and mother of four children. She was awarded the Legion of Merit in 1946.

Col. Julia E. Hamblet became its third director in May, 1953, succeeding Col. Katherine A. Towle. Born in Winchester, Mass., May 12, 1916, Col. Hamblet is the youngest director of women in the armed services.

A graduate of Vassar College and Ohio State University, she served with the U. S. Information Services from 1937 until 1943, when she entered the corps. During the war she commanded the Aviation Women's Reserve Group 1 at the Cherry Point, N. C., Marine Corps Air Station. She was awarded a Letter of Commendation.

1958 Milk Demands To Remain 'Strong'

CINCINNATI (AP)—A U. S. Department of Agriculture official says he thinks 1958 demand for milk will continue strong.

Herbert C. Kriesel told the National Milk Producers Federation Wednesday that the income of dairy farmers still leaves much to be desired.

He said that dairy income "continues below comparable rates of some other lines of farming, and considerably below comparable rates of some other lines of farming, and considerably below most non-farm pursuits."

TV Offering 'Disappointing'

'Ways of Love' Gets Analysis from Critic

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—It's difficult to find many people who agree on the nature or ways of love. Everybody has a different definition. When two of opposite sexes agree on love's nature it often leads them into all sorts of complications: marriage, children, mortgages. . . .

Probably there is wide disagreement too on "The Changing Ways of Love," the first offering of "The Seven Lively Arts" (CBS-TV, Sundays, 5 p. m. EST). Personally, I found it a disappointment, while believing that the program itself has great potential.

"The Changing Ways of Love" was an example of television's penchant for categorizing everything on the basis of available economic and social theorits — and available film clips. Love just can't be categorized in such a manner.

In brief live dramas, in film and dance and commentary, we saw and heard theories about the manners of love that we've often seen and heard before. In the 1920s love was expressed by "flaming youth" and the Charleston. In the 1930s love was a proleterian affair complicated by an economic depression. In the 1940s and after it ranged from Rita Hayworth to Elvis Presley and Jimmy Dean.

Three truncated dramatic sketches, which tried to illustrate three views of love in three decades, were ineptly selected. They were, however, an excellent vehicle for Piper Laurie.

"The Changing Ways of Love" said some familiar things about various social phenomena of recent years. But of love—its humors and posturings and utter sincerity—scarcely a significant word was said nor a stirring emotion evoked.

OFF-KEY — After testifying (above) in a Los Angeles court that her musician husband, Jack W. Thomas, 45, ran through her $120,000 fortune and was "quite abusive," Constance Deighton-Simpson Thomas, 45, was granted a default divorce decree. Thomas left her in 1955. (International)

Pennsy, New York Central Say 13 Trains Run in 'Red'

COLUMBUS (AP) — Representatives of two railroads that discontinued 13 passenger trains in Ohio told the Utilities Commission Wednesday that the trains were cut because they were not paying their own way.

The statements were made during an informal conference called by the commission to get a look at the passenger service that remains after the cut off. Commission Ralph Winter, who with Commissioner Edward J. Kenealy presided over the conference, said there would be formal hearings in cases where it appears remaining service will not be adequate.

He said he hoped the conference will clarify the issues and point to some that can be resolved without formal hearings.

The New York Central discontinued nine trains while the Pennsylvania cut off four.

William R. Main of New York City, director of passenger services for the NYC, said that railroad is caught in a three-way squeeze of lower passenger revenues, lower freight revenues and increased expenses.

He said that to Sept. 30 of this year the railroad's net income amounts to 8.8 million dollars which includes income from its real estate holdings and securities it owns If it weren't for those holdings, he said, the railroad might find itself in the courts. Another NYC spokesman in the hearing room told newsmen Main apparently referred to the possibility of bankruptcy.

Main said the New York Central has discontinued trains in other states and that the Ohio trains were discontinued only after a close study.

Attorney Oscar Lindstrand, assistant general counsel of Pennsylvania, said, "we're not going out of the passenger business but we're trying to operate economically."

He said two of the trains that railroad discontinued operated at a $125,000 loss during the 12 12 months before Oct. 27. And he added that only the city of Columbus had objected to removal of the other two trains which run to Indianapolis.

Air Force Brands Flying Saucers As Non-Existent

DAYTON (AP)—Air Force officials here and in Washington have categorically branded flying saucers as non-existent.

The Dayton Journal Herald quotes a top official of the Air Technical Intelligence Center as saying that checks of 5,700 reported sightings in the last 10 years failed in every case to offer any evidence of flying saucers.

He said not a single landing impression or footprint of any flying saucer or crew member has ever been found.

The center, located at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, is the Air Force's main filter center for reports of unidentified flying objects.

In Washington, the Air Force issued the same report. It said:

1. There is no physical or material evidence, not even a minute fragment, that a so-called flying saucer was ever found.

* * *

2. THERE IS no evidence that these unknown objects are interplanetary space ships.

3. There is no evidence that they represent any techonological developments outside the range of our everyday scientific knowledge.

4. There is no evidence of unknown hostile objects or of any threat to the security of the country because of them.

The Dayton Journal Herald quoted the officials as saying independent scientists under contract to the Air Force, and not the Air Force itself, determine the validity of the reported sightings.

He said recent reported sightings of unknown flying objects in Texas and Springfield, Ohio, will be explained when the current investigation is completed.

Recent launchings by Russia of Sputnik I and Sputnik II have done much to stimulate sightings, the official said.

The Air Force does not doubt that some people see flying objects they do not recognize, the spokesman said, but he added the objects are rarely what the people think they saw.

This year, the Air Force has investigated 768 reports of flying objects or unidentified flying objects, officials said, and came up with this breakdown:

Balloons, 26.1 per cent; aircraft, 24.6 per cent; astronomical (clouds or meteors) 26.3 per cent; lights or in some cases outright hoaxes, 6.7 percent; objects that could not be checked out because of insufficient data, 14.1 per cent; unknown, 2.2 per cent.

Ohioan in Alcatraz Denies Knife Attack

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Roland Simcox, an Alcatraz convict charged with murdering fellow inmate Edward H. Gauvin, has denied he attacked the victim with a six-inch brass knife.

Taking the witness stand in his own defense Wednesday, the 25-year-old Columbus, Ohio, man said Gauvin forced him into a fight June 6 and "came up with an object—I saw it was a knife."

Simcox told the court that Gauvin had a grudge against him. He said he refused to join Gauvin in a hunger strike while both were in the prison disciplinary area.

There Were Lady Marines Way Back in World War I

Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of five articles on the women's branches of the armed forces.

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Marine Corps was the last of the services to take in women during World War II, but their service in the corps actually began back in World War I when a few hundred enlisted women reserves filled clerical billets.

The Lady Leathernecks now are not only regulars in the corps but the only women in the armed forces to have a separate unit in the organized reserve. The first women's organized reserve platoon was formed in April, 1949. Today there are some 32 officers and 659 enlisted women Marines in the organized reserve.

The regulars on duty currently number about 1,800 enlisted women and 121 officers. They are serving at posts in the United States, Hawaii and Europe. Officers hold jobs as administrators, teachers, and publicists, as supply, finance and communications officers and in other specialized posts. Enlisted women may serve in any of 26 occupational fields, 87 specialties in all.

The Marine Corps Women's Reserve, established in February, 1943, boasted 18,838 members by May, 1945. Congress authorized their permanent status as regulars in 1948.

Most of the women were demobilized at the end of World War II, but a trained nucleus was retained. It proved itself ready for rapid mobilization at the outbreak of fighting in Korea in 1950.

First director of the Women Marines was Col. Ruth Cheney Streeter, wife of a retired Morristown, N. J., banker and mother of four children. She was awarded the Legion of Merit in 1946.

Col. Julia E. Hamblet became its third director in May, 1953, succeeding Col. Katherine A. Towle. Born in Winchester, Mass., May 12, 1916, Col. Hamblet is the youngest director of women in the armed services.

A graduate of Vassar College and Ohio State University, she served with the U. S. Information Services from 1937 until 1943, when she entered the corps. During the war she commanded the Aviation Women's Reserve Group 1 at the Cherry Point, N. C., Marine Corps Air Station. She was awarded a Letter of Commendation.

1958 Milk Demands To Remain 'Strong'

CINCINNATI (AP)—A U. S. Department of Agriculture official says he thinks 1958 demand for milk will continue strong.

Herbert C. Kriesel told the National Milk Producers Federation Wednesday that the income of dairy farmers still leaves much to be desired.

He said that dairy income "continues below comparable rates of some other lines of farming, and considerably below comparable rates of some other lines of farming, and considerably below most non-farm pursuits."

TV Offering 'Disappointing'

'Ways of Love' Gets Analysis from Critic

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—It's difficult to find many people who agree on the nature or ways of love. Everybody has a different definition. When two of opposite sexes agree on love's nature it often leads them into all sorts of complications: marriage, children, mortgages. . . .

Probably there is wide disagreement too on "The Changing Ways of Love," the first offering of "The Seven Lively Arts" (CBS-TV, Sundays, 5 p. m. EST). Personally, I found it a disappointment, while believing that the program itself has great potential.

"The Changing Ways of Love" was an example of television's penchant for categorizing everything on the basis of available economic and social theorits — and available film clips. Love just can't be categorized in such a manner.

In brief live dramas, in film and dance and commentary, we saw and heard theories about the manners of love that we've often seen and heard before. In the 1920s love was expressed by "flaming youth" and the Charleston. In the 1930s love was a proleterian affair complicated by an economic depression. In the 1940s and after it ranged from Rita Hayworth to Elvis Presley and Jimmy Dean.

Three truncated dramatic sketches, which tried to illustrate three views of love in three decades, were ineptly selected. They were, however, an excellent vehicle for Piper Laurie.

"The Changing Ways of Love" said some familiar things about various social phenomena of recent years. But of love—its humors and posturings and utter sincerity—scarcely a significant word was said nor a stirring emotion evoked.

OFF-KEY — After testifying (above) in a Los Angeles court that her musician husband, Jack W. Thomas, 45, ran through her $120,000 fortune and was "quite abusive," Constance Deighton-Simpson Thomas, 45, was granted a default divorce decree. Thomas left her in 1955. (International)
